

FINNEY OF THE FORCE

By Ted O'Loughlin

Poverty Note

By MARY STANLEY KIMM, President of the National Association of Public Welfare Workers, New York.

The family was getting ready for an auto ride. Little George was in the back seat of the machine, when he usually rode. But there was company today, and one of the guests was to sit in his accustomed place. George objected, and as he could not express his objection in words, since he could not yet talk, he began to squirm and fret.

"Never mind," said the visitor who was to sit in his place, as she saw the worried look on the face of his mother, who was going to lift him over onto the front seat. "George will be all right; he will sit on my lap; he is just anxious not to be left out."

"All right, you can try it; perhaps he will," said his mother.

The visitor seated herself, took George on her lap, and peace reigned. Never was a child more content than little George all during the ride.

When the visitors left, they were commenting on the good behavior of the little fellow, and one said, "I suppose the trouble we have with children often comes because we don't understand what they are thinking, and they are too young to tell us."

"Yes," said the one who had held George. "If we can just take their point of view, our problems will be much simplified; and after all, it is not hard to see what is in a child's mind, if we just consider how we would feel if we were in his place. It becomes second nature when we are with children much, to understand their thoughts and feelings."

As her companion agreed to this statement, she asked, "Do you remember little Charles, and how the nurse accused him of crying because of temper when he was only a few weeks old? The real cause was that they had waited too long to give him his bottle."

"When the nurse left, and his mother had to prepare his bottle, the baby cried while she was preparing it; he did not know she was at work getting ready to satisfy his hunger."

Do you tire easily?

- ✓ no appetite
- ✓ losing weight
- ✓ nervous
- ✓ pain

then don't gamble with your body

Why not reason out the cause of this unnatural condition?

Your first thought may be, "I must eat more." This is not all. You should enjoy what you do eat. Frequently, the blood cells are low... and this, perhaps, it what makes you feel weak.

If this is your trouble the stomach may not be calling for sufficient food. Zest to eat may be lacking. But what a difference B.S.S. makes when taken just before meals. Just try it and notice how your appetite and digestion improve.

B.S.S. stimulates the flow of gastric juices and also supplies the precious mineral elements so necessary to blood-cell and bone-building. Do try it. It may be the rainbow you need to brush away present discouragement over your health condition. B.S.S. Co.

Household Hint

When a small amount of cake is eaten at a time, cut the slices from center of cake. Push the two remaining pieces close together like a whole cake and this will keep soft for several days, preventing it from drying out.
