Kenansville Boys Visit Maxton Jr. College

J. O. Bowman, Jr., J. B. Stroud and Carlton Dobson went to Maxton last Friday to visit the Presbyterian Junior College there. The boys spent the night in the dormitory with the students and report a swell time. The visitors arrived at the college campus early Friday afternoon and made a tour of inspection of the buildings and the grounds. They had the privilege of meeting the professors and athletic coach, and saw the boys in action in a base ball game with the CCC boys. A long conference was held with President P. C. Adams in his office on Saturday morning and the boys feel that they know the inner workings of the college.

On the way to Maxton Friday, the boys stopped at Flora MacDonald College at Red Springs and had lunch with the girls. They reported that they felt that they were the center of attraction at that noon day meal because each boy had about 130 girls for which he felt a responsibility, and all 400 of them looking at him. Strange as it may seem, it was hard for the boys to leave Flora MacDonald and go on to Maxton.
