WHAT IS CIRCULATION?
Dear People: I have lain off now for several weeks from writing so we might all digest and assimilate if possible other articles.

Dear Mr. Atkinson: I appreciate your article in the Duplin Times of April 26th, very much. It has the right ring. The only difference between us in regard to your statement that I was mistaken as to facts, you say that there is plenty of money in circulation. The only trouble it is locked up in the banks. I presume you mean there is money enough in existence, but it is not in circulation in sufficient quantity. Now brother, if it is in circulation it is not locked up in the banks and if it is locked up in the banks it is not in circulation. You say there is a billion dollars more in circulation now than in 1929, this I do not deny as to the existence of that much more money. In May 1929 the big banks (Federal Reserve) said to their member and small banks "call in your loans and restrict agricultural credits." This they did to the tune of about 3.1-2 billion dollars. When this dictum went out cotton was selling for around forty cents a pound and wheat three dollars per bushel. The country was humming with business, owing to plenty of money and credit. Immediately everything slumped, cotton below ten cents, wheat below a dollar per bushel, business stagnated. If the Patman bill were enacted into law it would put about 2-1.2 billion dollars in circulation which would go along way toward reviving business and would cost the government only the printing of the money—This 2-1.2 billion dollars borrowed from Wall Street will cost the tax payers 150 million dollars annually without adding one dollar to the sum total of the money volume.

Dear Mr. Atkinson, please favor us with some more articles for publication, your views are fundamentally sound.—Respectfully, R. G. Maxwell.

Next week I will answer my own questions which I asked Senator Bailey, and which he attempted to answer, but his answers are not clear, concise nor correct.—R. G. Maxwell.

Have You Written Home To Mother?

Some where there is one who wishes each mail for a letter from you. Will you let her turn silently yet with a breaking heart, from the mail with no letter from you. She returns tomorrow only to have that hope shattered again—Was that my mother?—No. She has meant too much to me for me to forget her now, I will write to her, I will visit her, I will give her the flowers while she can enjoy them. May it never be said of me, I was unfaithful to my mother.

Hallsville Presbyterian Church

The Hallsville Presbyterian Church has recently purchased a new individual communion service which was used for the first time in the celebration of the Lords Supper last Sunday morning. The set has three trays, made of wood, of the basket type, and two new bread plates. Glass holders have been made and placed on the seats. We feel that this is a great asset to our church and will add much to the sacredness of the Communion Service.

Special Meeting Of Aux. of Grove Church

The Woman's Auxiliary of Grove Church will hold its annual birthday meeting Monday afternoon at 4:00 at the church. Mrs. J. A. Gavin, Jr., chairman of Foreign Missions will direct the program. A special offering will be taken for the birthday objective which goes this year to the support of the Golden Castle College in Nagoya, Japan. The public is invited to attend this program.

Big Picnic Planned

The Mom and Pop Club of Kenansville is planning to sponsor a town wide picnic to be held on June 3rd. All parents in Kenansville are asked to prepare a picnic supper and bring all the kiddies and attend and have a good time together. These Moms and Pops who have no children of their own are urged to find some needy child and bring him along for the feast and games.

Miss Laura Cox was the chief speaker at the meeting last night. She spoke on "Let's at the Crossroads" mentioning many of the viewpoints at the cross road pointing to the various attractions of life and then urged each parent to have the confidence of the youth

Through Capital Keyholes

By BESS HINTON SILVER

COMING SOON—By the time you read this Lieutenant Governor A. H. Graham may have announced his candidacy for Governor in the Democratic primaries next Spring. If not it will be forthcoming within the next few days. The second high man in the State government has not tried to keep it a secret that he still runs but has withheld announcement until it duties as presiding officer of the State Senate are completed.

HOBY—The opinion that Clyde R. Hoey, Shelby Democratic wheelbarrow, has been strengthened in Raleigh since the withdrawal of Congressman R. L. Doughton who decided he was needed as chairman of the national House Ways and Means Committee. Hoey also is withholding formal announcement until after the legislature adjourns at which time he will tell the State of his intentions. From a neutral position it's pretty hard to figure out just what the Shelby prator will do. No doubt he wants to run but is a man who detests getting into a political dog-fight to gain an office.

HUMANE—A man is just as dead when you kill him with lethal gas as if you electrify him but social leaders say that passing of the Peterson bill to substitute gas for electricity in capital punishment is a great stride in the right direction. Persons who have seen the gas executions say the prisoner displays no sign of pain and that such of the gruesomeness of electrocution is missing. Capital punishment opponents had this State's departure in the method of legal killing as a move toward its abolition. The Peterson bill provides that persons sentenced to death after July 1 be put to death by gas. Those sentenced before that date will be electrocuted.

GRABBED IT—The General Assembly voted to apply the sales tax to gasoline and instead of requiring you to pay the three per cent levy it will be taken from the tax of six cents per gallon you now pay. That means that another $300,000 of the money you are paying for roads will be used each year for other purposes. Already the State has been taking a million dollars a year out of the gasoline fund. Friends of good roads fear that there will be movements at the next legislative session to take your gasoline taxes to pay county bonds.

HOWL—North Carolina Representatives in Congress are still reported to be receiving violent protests against the Rayburn bill which would give the Federal Power Commission unprecedented power in regulating and setting the rates of all power companies. Around Raleigh it is said that the State Utilities Commission would have little authority over power rates if the Rayburn bill should become law. Opponents of the measure point out that the State Commission has lowered power rates while the higher state Commerce Commission has North Carolina in a bad way in the matter of freight rates.

LIQUOR—Advocates of liquor control were charged at the State Senate's action in killing the local option measure but they have extended their hopes to the 1937 legislative session. Senator Allbrook of Halifax, ardent supporter of the liquor control bills, asserts that the drys will not have more than a corporal's guard on hand two years hence. Drys were not able to attract the crowd of spectators this session that featured many hearings two years ago and many political leaders express the opinion that the State is already worn out and that such sentiment will express itself in the session of legislative candidates in the primaries next spring. It takes a good man to know which way this liquor cat will jump in North Carolina.

COME AROUND—Governor Ehringhaus told the General Assembly what he thought it should do and then let the members stew in their own fat as they sought other means of raising necessary revenue. The boys have spent four months at the job and are about to come around to the Governor's point of view. They forgot that he had spent two years dealing with the same problem. The Governor has been privately criticized for not taking a more active part in steering the Legislature but he has answered that he does not believe in big stick methods of government. "If they can find means of taxation better than those I suggested, it will be agreeable to me", the Chief Executive has said more than once.

ADVANTAGE—Every Legislature sees efforts to levy taxes that would give one product or class of business an advantage over another. This year the classic example was the bill to levy a tax of 10 cents per pound on one kind of oleomargarine. The result would have been to force the price above other kinds of oleomargarine and take the taxed variety off the markets. Such legislation is contrary to all principles of American government.

SORE—Senator John T. Burruss of Guilford, hasn't gotten over some things that happened a year or more ago and he hasn't missed many opportunities to shoot at the administration during the present session. Dr. Burruss was on the State Board of Health and supported R. T. Fountain against Governor Ehringhaus in 1932. When the Doctor's term expired the Governor did not reappoint him. Then the Doctor beat Capus M. Waynick for the Senate in 1934. Governor Ehringhaus appointed Waynick chairman of the State Highway and Public Works Commission and Dr. Burruss has been boiling ever since.

LOBBYISTS—About the hardest working group of men around a Legislature are the paid lobbyists. Those boys have to keep watch over their client's interests day and night. Some members of the General Assembly are always planning to annihilate some particular business and it keeps the lobbyists guessing from whence the next attack will come. The boys take a lot of cussing for their activities but they really do accomplish some good in calling attention of thinking members to foolish legislation that is being sneaked through. It's an ill wind that blows no good.

Thoughts For The Home

By F. L. GOODMAN

For Conscience Sake

It was Saturday night in Philadelphia many years ago; Girard, the millionaire, was ordering his employees to return next day to unload a ship. One young fellow said, "I cannot Mr. Girard." "Why?" "I cannot work on Sundays." "You know our rules." "Yes, sir, and I have a mother to support, but it is against my conscience to obey your order." "Step up to the desk and the cashier will settle with you. My men must obey the rules." But a few days after Mr. Girard recommended this young man to a friend for the position of cashier in a bank. "But you dismissed him," said the banker. "Because he would not work on Sundays, and yet a man who will lose his place for conscience sake would make a trust-worthy cashier."
