King's Jubilee Draws Crowds to Windsor Castle

SBEDTIME STORY By THORNTON W. BURGESS

DANNY MEADOW MOUSE was ARNY MEADOW MOUSE was trapped. He was trapped, but mot caught, which sounds rather mixed and isn't at all. You see he was trapped because Billy Mink was waiting for him just outside the only decreay to that hollow log in which he was hiding. But he wasn't caught, because that doorway was too small for Billy Mink get through and Billy couldn't reach him despite all his effores.

"You'll have to come out some time and I'm goling to stay right

PAPA KNOWS-

DANNY SHAKES MORE THAN here and wait for you," declared Billy Mink, "You may just as well come out now as to be pure to be come out now as to be come to be come out to be ing, because you are going to be caught anyway and I am going to catch you." Danny didn't say a word. He held his tongue, which was the wisest thing he could do. It usually is wise to mold one's tongue. But I suspect that it was fear more than wisdom which caused Danny to hold his tongue. You see, poor Danny was shaking all over with fear. He knew that for the time being he was safe, but he also felt, sure that if Billy Mink kept his word and watched just outside that door-way he would either starve to death that hollow log or furnish Billy Mink a good meal.

Danny couldn't decide which end ould be the worst and the more he thought it over the more he shiv-ered and shook. Either end was The fact is Danny Meadow Mouse was so badly frightened that he wasn't using his usu-ally lively wits at all. It never once entered his head that if Billy Mink waited long enough for him to starve, Billy would himself be likely to starve, and that is something Billy would be the very last person in the Great World to do. Billy is altogether too active to be patient. But Danny was too frightened to think of this and so he crouched shivering and shaking, as miserable a little Meadow Mouse as ever lived. "I ought to have remembered Billy Mink's wonderful nose and that if he once found my trail ne would follow me straight here," thought Danny. "I ought to have waded in the water after crossing the Laughing Brook, and so broken my trail. I ought to have found a hiding place with more than one entrance. I ought—but what's the use of thinking the things I ought to have done and didn't do? There isn't any. There isn't any at all." That was quite true. When it is too late there seldom is any use in thinking of what should or should not have been done. But because there seemed to him nothing else to think about, Danny Meadow Mouse continued to think about his mistakes and to shake with fear. And outside Billy Mink grinned and licked his lips and tried to think of some way to make Danny Mendow Mouse come out of that hollow log.

KITCHEN SHORT CUTS

HERE are so many culinary operations needlessly repeated day. after day in numberless homes making gravies, mixing pastry for ples, cheese sticks and tarts, all at different times, when one process would make all three.

would make all three.
One of the daily tasks in most homes of the dinner hour is the making of gravies. The French word roux covers the base or thickening of gravies. There is white roux and brown which is simply white flour browned.

For the white roux melt one-half pup of shortening in a heavy frying and green pepper, one tablespoon pan, add three-fourths of a cup of each of celery and parsley, a tenpan, add three-fourths of a cup of flour and cook slowly, stirring con-stantly until it is thoroughly blend-ed and well cooked. Remove from the fire and store in a cool place until needed. For thickening soups, white sauce, creamed chicken or vegetables, use one to two table spoons of the roux to each cup of liquid, according to the thickness

To make brown roux, use the same proportions of fat and flour, but stir and cook until thick, smooth and brown, using care not to scorch. This, too, may be stored and used as thickening for meat gravies, mushroom sauce, stews and highly

A french dressing much liked and one which will keep two weeks in the ice chest is prepared as fol-lows: 'Chop one small southern onlon, two tablespoons each of red spoon of sugar and salt and cayoll in proportion of one to three or four. Add two tablespoons of the piquant french dressing to the mayonnaise when serving. Hard-cooked eggs may be added, but should not be put into the dressing until ready to use.

SEEK BAN ON BIBLE

The Freethinkers of America and Joseph Lewis, president, have insti-tuted a suit in the New York State Supreme court "to stop the rending of the Bible and existence of religiously controlled societies in our public schools" in order "to uphold the American principle of the separation of church and state."

The complaint recites that Protestants, Catholics, and Jews disagree, and that "for several centurles the said three sects hated and murdered each other in their controversies over said Bibles, but now are not allowed by secular law to murder each other, though the controversies and religious hatreds are quite as vocal as ever."-Literary
