QUESTION: How can one substitute cocoa for chocolate in a given recipe?

ANSWER: To substitute cocoa for chocolate use 1/4 cup cocoa for each ounce of square of chocolate and add 1/2 teaspoon butter for each 1/4 cup of cocoa.

QUESTION: What is the difference between powdered and confectioners' sugar?

ANSWER: Confectioners' sugar is a finely pulverized sugar to which a small quantity of starch has been added. Powdered sugar is also a finely pulverized sugar, but it contains no starch.

QUESTION: What is the best way to cook cereals for children?

ANSWER: If cereals are cooked in milk instead of water, they will have more food value. This can be done if the cereal is cooked at a low temperature. The thrift cooker of the Hotpoint electric range maintains an even, low temperature without the use of a double boiler and without requiring careful watching. This thoroughly insulated cooking unit maintains the desired low, even temperature with a minimum expenditure of fuel.

QUESTION: Is it possible to use flour and cornstarch interchangeably as a thickening agent in recipes?

ANSWER: Both flour and corn starch may be used for thickening, but they cannot be used interchangeably for flour has one half the thickening power of cornstarch and does not produce a clear thickened product. However, when it is not essential to produce a transparent product the cornstarch stipulated in the recipe may be replaced by twice the quantity of flour.

QUESTION: If foods are over salted, is there any remedy?

ANSWER: A slice of potato placed in the pan of over-salted vegetables or soup will absorb some of the salty flavor, sometimes a little sugar added will offset some of the salty flavor.
