DUPLIN-Warsaw

"Sing and Be Happy," the Twentieth Century Fox musical opening Monday at the Duplin Theatre, features Anthony Martin, Leah Ray, Joan Davis, Helen Westley, Allan Lane and Dixie Dunbar against the amusing background of advertising agency warfare and radio community sings.

One of the screen's snappiest wise cracking newspapermen departs from his light hearted roles to play a highly dramatic part, also as a newspaperman in "Last Train From Madrid" the first story based on the present Spanish condition, opening Tuesday at the Duplin Theatre.

It is handsome Lew Ayres, as an American correspondent in the beleaguered Spanish capital, as falls in love with Olympia Branda, a member of the famous "Women's Battalion," and in the few brief hours in which he has with her before the city bombardment he finds the love and happiness he never believed existed. The cast is headed by Dorothy Lamour, Gilbert Roland, and Anthony Quinn and includes Karen Morley, Lionel Atwell, Helen Mack and Robert Cummings.

The latest movie, "Blazing Sixes", starring that shooting stinging cowboy, Dick Foran, doesn't belie its name, according to advices sent in advance of the next opening at the Duplin Theatre.

Warner melodrama called "Blazing Sixes", and the numeral, of course, refers to the six-gun with which Dick and his pals and their enemies, the stagecoach robbers, volley their way through the plot. A new leading lady makes her Hang on to your hats, folks—here we go again! That irrepressible pair of mad merry-makers, Brocken' Bob Burns and Martha the Ultra Violet Rays, have escaped from the booby hatch and landed at the Duplin Theatre in their latest chuckle-filled insanity, "Mountain Music".

"Mountain Music" is a grand comedy filled with grand music. Bob Burns plays a mountain boy with an unfortunate habit of losing his memory whenever he is hit on the head. He only snaps back to normal when liberally splashed with large quantities of water and knowing Martha Raye, you can imagine what a welcome invitation that is.

Bob meets Martha after running away from home to avoid being married off to Terry Walker, with whom his brother, played by John Howard, is in love. Bob has lost his memory, and finds himself in possession of an expensive car, lots of cash, and a driver's license issued to Hamilton Lovelace, and in that character, Bob and Martha fall in love.

From that point on, the fun goes completely wild. Every once in a while, Bob gets slapped in the face by a pall of water, he recovers his memory, and can't stand the sight of Martha, then she slaps him on top of the head, and presto! He's once more Romeo to her Juliet.

"Slim" is a picturesque outdoor drama dealing with those colorful young men who seem to have been neglected heretofore by novelist and scenarists, the line-men who string high-tension wires across the land.

Pat O'Brien and Henry Fonda are co-starring as a pair of pole-climbing pals. Margaret Lindsay is the girl whom they both love. J. Ferrel MacDonald is their boss. Stuart Erwin is their buddy. Others who figure in their adventures are Dick Purcell, Joseph Sawyer, John Litel, Craig Reynolds, Jane Wyman and Joseph King.

Ray Enright directed the picture from the screen play by William Wister Haines, who was also author of "Slim" as a best selling novel.

BROWN-PRIDGEN

Warsaw, July 21.—A wedding of outstanding interest and unusual beauty took place in the Warsaw Methodist Church on Tuesday morning, July 20, at 10 o'clock, when Miss Margaret Pridden of Warsaw, became the bride of Charlie Brown of Potocasi and Norfolk, Va. The tastefully arranged setting included tall baskets of white crepe myrtle and Japanese pines, low baskets of pink gladioli and Queen Anne's lace, and candelabra with lighted candles, against a background of banked asparagus fern and summer sweet.

Pastor of the bride, Rev. W. F. Waters conducted the ceremony. Ushers were James Robert Grady, of Kenansville and George P. Pridden, Jr., of Warsaw. An unusual program of nuptial music was given by Miss Sallie G. Pridden, Miss Catherine Pridden and Eccles Pridden, as follows: "The Little Red Lark" and "Die Lotusblume," piano; "The Sunshine of Your Smile," vocal solo, "A Dream," flute solo, and "The World is Waiting for the Sunrise," vocal and flute. "Theme from Sonata in A," Mozart, was played during the ceremony; Wagner's and Mendelssohn's Wedding Marches were used as processional and recessional, respectively.

Mrs. J. E. Grady of Kenansville, sister of the bride, and Miss Miriam Sloan of Wallace attended the bride as dame of honor and maid of honor. Mrs. Grady wore a navy embroidered silk marquisette, with yellow and blue accessories; tallman roses composed her shoulder corsage. Miss Sloan wore a becoming navy chiffon dress, with an applique-trimmed natural straw hat, and navy accessories; her flowers were pink roses.

The bride entered with her father, G. P. Pridden of Warsaw. Her dress was a two-piece beige model with overblouse of matching lace; a smart off-the-face hat of Dubonnet felt, matching accessories, and an exquisite shoulder corsage of Better Times roses in the same ruby tone, showered with valley lilies, completed the costume.
