Negro Health Doctor Doing Valuable Work

Raleigh, Oct. 23—Gratifying results of the Statewide Health Week program carried on under the direction of L. G. Blackus, assistant State Supervisor of Recreation Work for Negroes, have been brought to the attention of Dr. Carl V. Reynolds, State Health Officer. Dr. Reynolds, called upon to cooperate in the movement, rendered the assistance requested, as did Dr. E. E. Fox, director of the Division of County Health Work. Dr. Walter Hughes, associated with the State Board of Health for work among negroes, being the first negro to be employed by any state in this capacity, also rendered valuable assistance, the report to Dr. Reynolds said. Planning meetings were held in the key cities of Asheville, New Bern, Greensboro, High Point, Smithfield, Charlotte, Rocky Mount, Washington, Elizabeth City, Greenville, Salisbury, Henderson, Raleigh, Warrenton and Goldsboro. Clean-up campaigns were carried on, health sermons were preached in many churches, lectures were given, literature distributed, yards cleaned, houses painted, tin cans were gathered up by children and presented to picture shows, which gave tickets of admission in exchange. Various other movements designed to promote better health conditions among negroes were prosecuted, and at meetings held throughout the State thousands of negroes were addressed directly, and it is estimated that at least 40 per cent of North Carolina's negro population came within the scope of the health week program's influence. State, county and city health departments all gave their coopera-
