In our lesson today Paul declares that he, by the grace of God, worked wisely in Corinth laying the foundation, that another might build on it. But, he laid it well. The foundation was Jesus Christ. He applied the fundamental principles of Christianity to the everyday questions of life and duty. Yes, Paul taught "Jesus Christ." "Other foundation can no man lay than that is laid, which is Jesus Christ." Here is the foundation for every Christian worker to build upon—and he must be careful to do so. If he fails in this point his building may easily burn for it is as hay, wood, stubble. But if he builds upon the right foundation his work will be permanent, for it is as gold, silver, precious stones. There will come a day when every worker's work will be tried. As gold, silver, and precious stones will withstand fire, so will the right kind of teachings and principles abide. As wood, hay and stubble burn, so will the wrong kind of teachings and principles. He, himself, though careless and indifferent, may be saved, but his work is lost, gone up in smoke as it were. If any man's work abide, he shall receive a reward. So as we work together as laborers with God why not seek to so build, so teach, as to see permanent results in the lives of those about us? That will be the great reward.

Now as we turn to the Epistle of Paul to the Galatians we find that the Judaizers were busy trying to pervert the Christians from the Gospel of Paul, but he still longs to be with them for he loves them as of old. See Gal. 4: 7-10. He hurls this Epistle like a thunderbolt and God blessed it. He admonishes them to be not deceived, or turn up their nose to God, for they shall reap what they sow. If they sow to the flesh it will be just too bad. If they sow to the Spirit they shall reap life everlasting. After two thousand years we still find people who deceive themselves, mock God, and then when the harvest comes they wonder what they have done to deserve all this. They had a good time sowing but forgot the harvest. To save time and rob a crow's nest I planted beans under a rock, as a boy upon the farm, but they grew up all around that rock and my Father found them. I was still trying to save time, and crows were still building nests for boys to rob, but I had to take time off for that whipping. Sooner or later we face the harvest but when we do remember we planted the seed.

Let's quit and go home on that one.

Well, cold weather is here again in Chocolate and Christmas is drawing near. Although we are glad we have a national Thanksgiving Day, November 23, to remind us all that we should give thanks to the Supreme Being, for all our blessings, every day should be a Thanksgiving day.

Quite a crowd attended, and enjoyed the day Sunday, at Chellie's Chapel, when the new Universalist parsonage was dedicated. R. G. Maxwell is still improving at his home, and his many friends will be delighted to know he is able to be out again after being confined to the house for more than two months.

Mrs. W. R. Gooding and Mrs. Mabel M. Holt visited Mrs. J. W. Rhue one day recently.

Mr. and Mrs. Egbert Grady will occupy the new home on highway No. 111 on the plantation of J. E. O'Daniel on the old B. F. Grady place.

Miss Olivia Smith, who is at E. O. T. C. Greenville, spent the weekend with her parents recently, Mr. and Mrs. E. A. (Dunn) Smith.

William Outlaw visited W. R. Gooding recently.

Mr. and Mrs. Ambrose Smith, who married a few weeks ago, will occupy the new house of his father E. A. Smith, near W. J. Grady, formerly occupied by S. H. Harper, as dwelling house and store.

We enjoyed the Democratic Rally down at Maxwell's Hall last Tuesday night. There were many Henry L. Stephens We need more like him. And the prize should go to Red Kornegay, Jerry Smith, and W. R. Gooding for cooking the best fish stew, and fried fish anywhere.

Mrs. J. W. Rhue and children, Ruina, Johnnie, Ernie Jean, and Guy spent a few days with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Gooding last week.

Mrs. Mabel M. Holt was the weekend guest of her sister, Mrs. J. D. Williamson at Pink Hill.

Miss Victoria Gooding visited Misses Rose and Violet Maxwell Saturday.

The old Jones Smith home, near Helms Church, now owned by Zack Williams, and which was occupied by Evanda Outlaw and family and others, was destroyed by fire last Wednesday. Mr. Outlaw has moved to Henderson, N. C. Very little was saved, as the family were all away from home at the time of the accident.

Hugh Maxwell attended the Carolina-Duke football game last Saturday. Three cheers for "Carolina." Some of the Kenansville folks accompanied Hugh.

Mrs. H. D. Maxwell, Mrs. W. R. Gooding, Mrs. Earl Smith, Mrs. M. F. Westbrook, Mrs. Thad Kornegay, Mrs. Alvin Kornegay, Miss Bessie Kornegay and mother, Mrs. W. G. Kornegay attended the third district meeting of the O. E. S. at Salemburg, N. C., last Saturday November 13th. A large crowd attended. Music was furnished by J. W. Fontaine, at the piano, and Mrs. Gurney McCrew sang. All returned late, and reported a nice trip.

Mrs. Paul Williams and Mrs. John Ivy Smith attended the dedication at Chellie's chapel parsonage Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Gooding were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ira Westbrook Sunday.

Misses Victoria Gooding, Rose, and Violet Maxwell visited Miss Jessie Frederic Stanley awhile Sunday.

Mrs. H. D. Maxwell visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. P. Tynhall at Pink Hill Sunday.

Hugh Maxwell and sisters, Rose and Violet, and mother, Victoria Gooding made a trip to Kenansville, (Kenansville, N. C.) on the radio message.

Miss Anna May Smith is spending a few days with Mrs. L. M. Walker and family in the Woodberry section, Lewis County.

During these days of war threats he who laughs last may not laugh at all.

The word which seems to fit in the solution to our business puzzle is Distribution.

Headlines say America has been elected to solve peace problem. Someone has to be the goat.

Editorials declare war a Moody monster, but it brings home the bacon to its mother, money-power.

Some men find their happiness in their work; others are really the boss of the family.

Buzzards are like our modern bombing planes; they don't attack until the victim is helpless.

Third Term Talk

Rumors and intimations that President Roosevelt may run for a third term in the White House has caused our liberty-loving American people to back off and begin to think dark thoughts about dictators, fascism, and other unwanted things, which is not at all as it should be.

In the first place President Roosevelt will very likely not attempt to run for office again.

In the second place our long observed custom of having a president to serve a maximum of two terms was started by Geo. Washington at the beginning of this nation as a democracy not because of any imminent danger of overthrow of the government by any man, but simply because we were making a start as a democratic nation and he wished us to stand on our own feet and be thought of as the United States, and not as George Washington's folks. That custom is not among the ten commandments, and has already served its purpose.

In the third place a majority of our scares are caused by a few million dollars worth of propaganda being distributed among our good American people to lead them with false information. Politicians have a goal in mind, and are willing to go to any lengths, no matter how ridiculous, in order to reach it.

All of which appears to be a fairly good argument for a third term for Franklin D. Roosevelt, but it is not. The American people should keep in mind such facts as these in order to understand that they are subject to a constant series of efforts to mislead them, and must depend upon a keen mind and understanding of the underlying truths in government in order to choose a man as their leader who will serve them and work in their interest. That man should be chosen by the people, and if Roosevelt is that man he deserves reelection.

Lesson Text—1 Corinthians 3:10-16; Gal. 6: 6-10

Golden Text: "Let us not be weary in well doing; for in due season we shall reap, if we faint not." Gal. 6: 9.

By REV. R. A. CADLE

We know that Paul was in Ephesus when he wrote his first letter to the Corinthian church. We know that it was just before Pentecost, therefore in the spring of the year. We also know that Apollos had gone from Ephesus to God.

To BE-LIEVE or Not To BE-LIEVE

by hugh maxwell

Looks like snow doesn't it? Ah, but the weather man can tell us about that. He said that the clouds would clear up before the Carolina-Duke football game Saturday and (page Ripley) they did.

When an old Carolina man recalls that game he can't stop, so you're in for it. This department particularly remembers, in addition to those old winning touchdowns, how Buck "Crasher" Jones, your estimable assistant county agent, was so excited after the game that he ran through red lights all the way home, happily yelling, "Watch me hit that line." Looked like all the cars that got in our way preferred to play the safety position.

But we can't talk about football all day, even if Carolina does have the best football team in the country, so as soon as we tell you about the girl who sat in front of us and drank two pints of Scotch whiskey we'll go on to something else. Come to think of it we'd better not tell you about her. It isn't nice.

Did you know that Heaven has apparently been moved down to Helena, Montana? At any rate people there walk the golden streets. Tests have shown that gravel used in paving the streets has a gold content.

And incidentally did you see where some young lady is suing two Chicago department stores for $10,000 because they sold her lipstick which was supposed to be "indelible" and it came off? She charged that it use "destroyed her enjoyment of co-simulation." Kissing must mean a whole lot to that girl.

But here is the news item which takes the cake in your old column.
