Rural Rehab To Continue Under Farm Security

The rural rehabilitation supervision loan program will continue as heretofore, under the newly established Farm Security Administration, of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, C. J. Marshburn, County Supervisor in charge of rural rehabilitation work in Duplin and Fender counties early this week from his office in Kinston, following assurances received from George S. Mitchell, Regional Director of the Farm Security Administration in Raleigh, N. C.

Mr. Marshburn stated that the Bankhead-Jones Farm Tenant Act, which the Farm Security Administration will administer, provides for continuation of the rural rehabilitation and farm debt adjustment work which he represents in this section and that he has been instructed to carry on substantially as before, under the new agency.

Rehabilitation loans, accompanied by farm and home management advice from County Supervisors, are made by the government to financially distressed farm families who held out hope of making a comeback whether on their own land or on rented land, but who are unable to secure proper credit from other sources to make crops or to purchase needed livestock and equipment.

In addition to the rural rehabilitation program which will be continued as an important phase of the new agency, the Farm Security Administration will conduct the tenant loan program as provided in the Farm Tenant Act, for the purchase and improvement of farms for selected farmers, and the Resettlement Administration and those turned over to that organization from other agencies.

Details concerning the handling of applications for the new tenant loans will be announced later by the Regional Office, Mr. Marshburn has been advised.

Land use planning and submarginal activities, further provided for in the Bankhead-Jones Act, have been entrusted by the Secretary of Agriculture to the Bureau of Agricultural Economics. This means that former Land Utilization work and that to be carried out under the new act will be continued through a Land Utilization Division under the Bureau of Agricultural Economics, while the Farm Security Administration will continue the tenant purchase and rural rehabilitation programs and complete farmstead project new under development. Thus the function of the former Resettlement Administration and those added by the Farm Tenant Act have been divided between the Farm Security Administration and the Land Utilization Bureau of the Bureau of Agricultural Economics.
