Miss Ruth Ingram has returned to Selma after having spent the holidays here with Mrs. Annie Ingram. She also visited in Burgaw and Wilmington during the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. Kustell Spence of Goldsboro, were recent visitors in the home of Mrs. D. S. Williams.

WATCH PARTY
Dr. and Mrs. G. V. Gooding entertained about 20 young folks on last Friday night at a watch party honoring their niece and nephew, Miss Madge Farquay of Durham, and Eric Long of Presbyterian Junior College at Maxton. Several games were enjoyed until a late hour, bingo being the most popular. Later in the evening the young folks went into the front yard to shoot fireworks. Punch and wafers were served during the progress of the games. At midnight the crowd divided into several different groups to ring the various churches and the court house bell, and enjoyed ringing in the New Year.

MRS. WALLACE HOSTESS
Mrs. Joseph Wallace entertained the members of her bridge club on last Wednesday afternoon at 2:30, with Mrs. Bealy Maynard Moskowitz as an additional guest. Attractive tables bearing a miniature Christmas tree seated the guests as they arrived. After several interesting progressions scores were totaled and it was found that Mrs. W. D. Reynolds held high score for which she was awarded a dainty sugar and cream set. Mrs. Moskowitz held second high score, and was given a lovely box of stationery. The hostess assisted by Mrs. E. C. Burch served a tempting salad plate carrying out a color scheme of green and red.

CARD CLUB MEETS
Mrs. L. A. Bealey was a most charming hostess on last Thursday afternoon at 2:30 to her card club and several additional guests including Mesdames E. L. Stevens, Jr., E. D. Johnson, T. J. Graham and Daisy Smith of Warsaw. After several spirited progressions the hostess served delectable refreshments in two courses, which consisted of a chicken salad plate with accessories followed by ambrosia and cake. High scores were made during the afternoon by Mrs. J. E. Ferritt for club members and Mrs. H. L. Stevens, Jr., for the visitors present. They were presented lovely remembrances of the occasion.

Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Reynolds were recent visitors with relatives in Clayton.

Mrs. W. J. Pickett accompanied Mrs. Noble Martin and brother, Jim Penny to Wilmington one day last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Moskowitz, of New York City, have been visiting Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Reynolds.

Miss Lillian Morris of Fremont, has been visiting Mrs. Buck Jones.

WOMAN'S CLUB MEETS
The regular monthly meeting of the Kenansville Woman's Club was held on last Thursday afternoon at 2:30 in the club rooms, which had been made most attractive by the use of pines for a background in the midst of which stood a wigwam and several little Indians to complete the setting, as the program for the afternoon was on the "Indians." Mrs. A. J. Stanton told of "The Indian of Yesterday" giving a brief history. This was followed by a discussion on "The Indian Girl of Today—Her Needs and Opportunities" by Mrs. H. B. Boney. In an interesting contest which followed and was in charge of Mrs. E. C. Wells, it was found that Mrs. A. J. Dickson had the most correct answers. She was presented a lovely pottery vase. The hostesses, Mesdames P. J. Dobson, L. Southernland and W. J. Pickett served appetizing cake with coffee and cream. Upon each plate was found a miniature canoe filled with salted nuts. There were 22 ladies present.

Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Cameron and attractive little daughter, of Lake Waccamaw, spent Saturday night here with Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Dickson.

Visitors in the home of the Norwood Boney's last Sunday were: Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Kornegay, of Camden, S. C.; Mrs. Mattie S. Kornegay and daughter, Margaret and Virginia, also Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Brown and children, all of Goldsboro.

WILLIAMS-CARR
Wallace—Miss Evangeline McIntyre Carr and Joseph Davis Williams were united in marriage Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents, Rev. and Mrs. Eugene Black Carr. The ceremony was performed by the father of the bride.

Prior to the ceremony, Mrs. E. Carlton, pianist, and Miss Ethel Farrier, violinist, rendered a program of wedding music.

The couple came down the stairs together and took their places before an improvised altar banked with long leaf pines and ferns and arched with southern smilax. White branched candelabra with glowing cathedral candles flanked the altar. The bride wore a suit of mahogany wool, trimmed with brown mole-skin. Her turban was of brown with a shoulder length wedding veil. Other accessories were of brown. She wore a corsage of Talisman roses.

Mrs. Williams received her education at Broadway High School and attended Elon College, where she received her A. B. degree. She is now a member of the Bunn school faculty. Mr. Williams is a prominent farmer of Bunn.

After a short wedding tour the couple will be at home in Bunn.

Mrs. Williams was a member of the Kenansville school faculty last year. The groom is an uncle of Miss Margaret Williams, who also taught here last year.

It Puts On Its Airs
The country weekly is the most popular week-end edition of the rural community, whatever its title is a year. In some families it has been a fixture for generations.

The above two sentences open a chapter dealing with the country weekly and publicity in a book by Raymond C. Mayer, "How to Do Publicity," which Dreyfus Book of Harper & Brothers sent us.

"It is in most instances a tried and true friend," Mr. Mayer goes on, "arriving sometime on Thursday or Friday. It puts on no airs, is as comfortable as an old shoe, talks the language of the people it visits, knows them well and understandingly, tells its news of the neighborhood simply and quickly in a spirit of goodwill, does not overstay its welcome and drops out of sight until another week rolls around."

The country weekly has seen for generations and still remains the sensitive news center of towns, villages, and the widespread countryside. It is woven out of the fabric of the lives of the people who read it. It maintains close association and intimate contact with them. No other vehicle for carrying information is more personal in its relationships with its readers. —Linotype's Shining Lines.

MILLIONS READ THESE INVITATIONS from NORTH CAROLINA

NEWSPAPERS AND MAGAZINES TELL STATE'S ADVANTAGES

Reproduced at the left are some of the North Carolina advertisements, inviting visitors to the State, which have appeared in a list of selected metropolitan newspapers and in national magazines such as Time, National Geographic, Field & Stream, and others of wide circulation and reader interest. That these advertisements were read with interest is evidenced by the enormous number of inquiries directly traceable to them, received by the Department of Conservation & Development at Raleigh.

Thousands of copies of the booklet, "North Carolina, Variety Vacationland," have been mailed in answer to requests and much information of a specific nature as well. It is generally conceded that North Carolina has enjoyed its biggest summer vacation season this year and that additional thousands of visitors came during the Autumn months.

The agricultural phase of the State's advertising is now in progress, embracing such publications as Country Gentleman, Copper's Farmer, Successful Farming, Ohio Farmer, Indiana Farmer's Guide, and Kansas Farmer. This month will also see the beginning of a series of advertisements featuring the industrial advantages of the State in such magazines as News Week, Life, Time, Business Week, Nation's Business, Forbes, and others. Appeals to specific industries will also be made through their trade journals. Prominent magazines in the Class group will carry the State's invitation to participate in the Winter sporting and social activities in the Winter Resort sections. Special advertisements aimed at the Winter tourist element in Florida will be published in leading Florida dailies this Winter.

This information is published through the courtesy of this and other North Carolina newspapers in the belief that every North Carolinian is interested in the theme and the highly successful progress of the State's advertising.
