THEATRE--WARSAW
Davis, who is considered the greatest actor in Hollywood, more frank fan letters any other player.
Davis, who is co-starring with Leslie Howard in "It's Love I'm After," a Warner Bros. comedy, opening at the Duplin Theatre on January 10, says he is amazed by the number of missives which tell her, in effect:
"I've never liked you on the screen until recently. I always loved the characters you played, but now I've come to realize that you're really not mean like that-- that you're only acting a dramatic part."

Robert Chapin and Kaye De Wolf wrote the original story and screen play for "Borrowing Trouble," latest in Twentieth Century-Fox's Jones Family series, opening Tuesday at the Duplin Theatre. Frank E. Strayer directed, with Max Golden, associate producer, Shirley Deane, Spring Byington, Russell Gleason, Kenneth

Howell, George Ernest, June Carson, Florence Roberts and Billy Makus in their customary roles.
A one-act play brought Monty Woolley, veteran actor, before the cameras for the first time in "Live, Love and Learn," attraction at the Duplin Theatre next Thursday and Friday.
Dramatic coach at Yale for twelve years and for eight years a well-known Broadway performer, Woolley never had spoken a line before a motion picture camera.
He made his entrance into the Greenwich village apartment set shared by Robert Montgomery, Rosalind Russell and Robert December, promptly on cue. "I," he declared, "am Mr. Bawltitude!"

Smoking, following the script promptly accepted a large puff of water over his head. Miss Russell played the man and Monty Woolley began snuffing off his and suspension.
The hapless, hilarious George Montgomery decided was a one-take success.
PARAMOUNT--KINSTON-- Reunited for the first time since they made motion picture comedy history in "Twentieth Century," Carole Lombard and John Barrymore appear in Paramount's new comedy-drama, "True Confession," which opens Saturday at the Paramount Theatre in Kinston, with Fred MacMurray, co-starred with them. The picture is on the bill Saturday and Sunday at the Paramount.

"True Confession," from the French play, "Max Crime," by Louis Veuillot and Georges Barry, gives Miss Lombard the most astounding opportunity for comedy characterization of her career, and Barrymore an equally great opportunity, in the roles of two inmar-able liars fighting to claim credit for a murder which neither of them committed.
The picture, which was directed by Wesley Ruggles, also features Una Merkel, Edgar Kennedy, Lynne Agnew, Porter Hall, John T. Murray, Richard Carle, Fritz Feld and Tommy Dugan.

They found that they go to a husband or a husband's decision. The entire battle was filmed and shot down into the outlet room, leaving only the most thrilling scenes.

important sequences in "Man-Frost," coming next Monday, Tunesday and Wednesday to the Paramount Theatre in Kinston.
According to the script it did not matter who won the battle so long as it was a bang-up, lively fight. As the heavyweights, Director Richard Thorpe signed Frank Brinkman and Bob Evans, popular Pacific Coast heavies.

"The Life of Emile Zola" at Carolina Theatre in Kinston Next Week is Recommended for School Students

"The Life of Emile Zola," with Paul Muni, Academy Award winner playing the leading role, will be the presentation of the Carolina Theatre in Kinston, next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, January 10, 11, 12.
Paul Muni in a performance unparalleled in screen history, and in a picture unparalleled by any past production, plays the leading role that of Zola, the rebel genius life never tamed. He strikes across the screen in this picture to become an immortal character in the motion picture Gallery of the Great!
"The Life of Emile Zola" has been placed on the approved list of practically all film-reviewing groups, including the Federation of Women's Clubs, the National League of Decency, and the International Federation of Catholic Alumni.
"Zola, Man of Courage," was featured in the September issue of "Scholastic," the American High School Weekly. The editors of "Scholastic" previewed the film several times, and along with teachers and other educators who were gathered last summer in New York City, hailed the film as one of the truly notable achievements of cinema art. The picture is unhesitatingly recommended for grammar grade, and high school students of history, by all educators, who have seen or reviewed the picture.
A review in the New York Times says that "The Life of Emile Zola," is "the finest historical film ever made, and the greatest screen biography."
The review goes on further to say: "Literature knows Zola as the author of 'Nana' and a score of other novels, which crusaded during a sociologically dark age in France, in behalf of the oppressed and unenlightened. History knows him more dramatically as the man who cried out, so all the world could hear against the famous perversion of justice that was the Dreyfus case. 'The Life of Emile Zola' is the story of both th-mes--the crusading novelist, the Dreyfus defender--and the story told with dramatic strength, with brilliant language and with superb performances.

"Paul Muni's portrayal of Zola is, without doubt, the best thing he has done. Fiery, bitter, compassionate as the young novelist, settled, complacent, content to rest from the wars in his later years; then forced into the struggle again, although he resisted it, when the Dreyfus case whispered to his conscience--Mr. Muni has given us a human and well-rounded portrait.
Don't let "Emile Zola" wind through its magnificent showings in Kinston without your seeing the film.
