Soil Program Aids In Diversification

John Brown: "The 1938 program will also help you balance your farming operations." Bill Smith: "I need to balance my income with my expenses. I've been running behind for so long that I'd about give up hope." Brown: "It'll help you do that. It's the best all-around farm program I've ever heard of." The committee will tell you how many acres you should plant to the different cash crops. And by limiting your acreage of cash or soil-depleting crops, you will have other land available for growing hedges and hedges.

"With this you can start farming on a good crop rotation system instead of keeping a field in the same crop year after year." "The program also encourages us to grow sorghum and hay crops to feed livestock. This cuts down on expenses of feed. With a well balanced farming program, many other expenses will be kept down too." "And when you start growing more feed, you can have more livestock. You know, livestock are needed to balance out your farm enterprise."

Smith: "Yeah, I think most all of us around here could do better if we had a few more cows and hogs." Brown: "That's right, Bill. I think we could have some more beef cattle, sheep, and work stock too. They're good money-makers. And it's a lot cheaper to raise your work stock than to buy it."

Smith: "I could use some manure on my place. I've been wishing I had enough to spread on my land regularly." Brown: "Yes. There you have still another advantage from the program. More feed, more livestock, more manure. I tell you, it's hard to beat."

Smith: "That's right, Bill. I think we could have some more beef cattle, sheep, and work stock too. They're good money-makers. And it's a lot cheaper to raise your work stock than to buy it."

TIMELY FARM QUESTIONS ARE ANSWERED BY STATE COLLEGE

Announce Plans Seed Exposition

The North Carolina Crop Improvement Association will hold its fourth annual seed exposition and meeting in Lexington February 8 and 9. A. D. Stuart of State College, has announced. Farmers' displays at the show will include certified and uncertified seed of high quality. Stuart declared. Featured on the first day of the meeting will be a crops judging contest in which 4-H Club boys and students of vocational agricultural schools will compete. Officials of the N. C. C. I. A. have secured several prominent agricultural authorities of State and national importance to speak before the crowd on the second day of the exposition. Goldsboro was the scene of the association's last meeting where a large number of Eastern North Carolina farmers viewed the exhibits and took part in the meetings. The annual meeting is held in a different city each year. Stuart said. The association now has a membership of approximately 250 farmers scattered throughout the State. These growers, through their cooperation with the association, are producing superior seed with high producing, disease resistant characteristics. Stuart pointed out definite need for the production of more certified seed in North Carolina. Certified seed is the best seed that is available in this State and certified, he said. "The field is wide open for those who are interested in producing purebred seed," he declared.

Home Robbed While Owners Away on Visit

The home of Mr. W. T. Messick in Kenansville was broken into on Thursday night January 18th and stripped of nearly everything movable except furniture, officers here stated. The house was entered by means of a side window. The robbers tore the screen away, broke the window and went in. A thorough search was made and, after ransacking the canned fruit and vegetables, flour, meat lard, clothes, bedclothes and other articles of use the outprints disappeared. They evidently let their brotherly instinct overcome them and left Mr. and Mrs. Messick their furniture. Mr. and Mrs. Messick were away. Friday deputy Kirt Dall arrested Feto Love at a local mill where he worked. Love, a negro, was jailed denying the robbery. Several articles of clothing missing were found in Love's possession. He will probably be tried at the next term of criminal court on charge of 2nd. degree burglary.

QUESTION: What causes early hatched pullets to fall off in production when there is no sign of molt or disease?

ANSWER: This winter pause in production is often encountered when early hatched pullets have been producing heavily. The birds are just resting and will undoubtedly soon swing back into heavy egg yields, five them normal care, keeping a well-balanced mash before them at all times and practicing rigid sanitation. Watch the flock for a neck molt, and if this occurs feed a wet mash to hasten production.

QUESTION: How can I keep my hams from souring?

ANSWER: Strict sanitation in handling the animals both before and after killing is necessary to prevent this spoilage. Do not overheat the animals before killing and be sure to bleed the animals well after killing. All animal heat should be out of the meat before curing. Scald all curing vessels and boil all water used in the brine. Each piece of meat should be rubbed with salt before curing and, if brine cured, the brine should be examined every few days. When smoking, hang the meat six to eight feet above the fire.

QUESTION: What is a good ration to give a calf six months old that has been abruptly taken from its mother?

ANSWER: The winter ration of a six-month old heifer should consist largely of a good leafy green colored legume hay. Usually two to three pounds daily is sufficient. A good grain ration is composed of three parts, by weight, of cracked yellow corn, one part of crushed oats, and one part wheat bran. Salt should be placed in the stall so that the calf can get it when desired and fresh water should be offered at least twice a day. In addition to the feed it is important that the calf be provided with a well bedded stall so that it can keep comfortable.
