Miss Grace Jones attending Louisiana college spent the week-end at her home here.

Miss Martha Joy Edwards, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. H. A. Edwards who underwent an appendicitis in a Goldsboro Hospital last Thursday is doing very nicely.

Mrs. Laura Davis has returned after a short visit in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Heath, near Kinston. Mrs. Heath, who is a daughter of Mrs. Davis, recently underwent a serious operation at Duke Hospital and is recuperating at her home.

Mrs. Jasper Smith, seriously burned at her home here, recently is slowly improving in a Kinston Hospital.

Mr. Roland A. Smith, popular employee of the W. H. Jones and Company, here, remains seriously ill in the Hospital in Kinston. A small son of Mr. Smith's came in contact with a bottle of poison zinc oxide in his father's room at the hospital last Saturday, drank a portion of it, and was painfully but not seriously injured.

Mrs. George Sheffield was honored at a shower sponsored by the Woman's Club, at the home of Mrs. Melvin Jones here Monday afternoon. Fruit was served. More than 40 attended.

KINSTON MALE CHORUS GIVES CONCERT HERE

The Kinston Male Chorus under the direction of Pat Alderman gave a concert in the auditorium of the school here Monday evening. Seats were not available to accommodate the large crowd attending. A feature of the concert was a dance specialty by Miss Betty Brown of New Hill.

An amateur contest made up of local talent, was held following the chorus performance. Jiggs Moore was the winner in this contest and received three dollars in trade from Quinn-Miller Co. in Kinston.

Horace Tyndall received a silver watch of appreciation from Turner's Drycleaning establishment in Kinston.

A number of Kinston firms sponsored the program, which was free. It was thoroughly enjoyed.

Mack Smith in Fight in Hospital

J. Mack Smith of Pink Hill is in a Kinston Hospital suffering from a severe injury sustained last Sunday night in a fight at the New Hill Athletic Club. The fight was not a serious one, but Smith was badly injured and spent in a Kinston Hospital, apparently in a coma, for several days. It is believed that he will be discharged from the hospital in a few days.

Smith's injury was the result of a fight with a local man. Smith was badly injured and spent in a Kinston Hospital, apparently in a coma, for several days. It is believed that he will be discharged from the hospital in a few days.

A NEW DELICIOUS

HERE'S a delightful solution to the Valentine party "problem." It's a heart-shaped salad, molded around creamed, spiced-flavored peans and trimmed with cream cheese. Place 1 and 1/2 cups for all the work like an old-fashioned recipe. The final touch is to mix with milk and most economical - it's a heart-shaped salad! Here's how: Boil 1 cup peas, together with 1/2 cup of stick cinnamon, for about 5 minutes. Then add enough red coloring to make syrup a deep red and drop 6 pear halves into syrup. Remove from flame and let stand until pears are red-the red. Then remove from syrup and drain on absorbent paper. Arrange out side down, about an inch apart in a shallow oblong pan. Then dissolve 1/2 packages of lemon-flavored gelatin in 2 cups boiling water and add 1 1/2 cups of finely crushed ice. (Be sure to use only pure, taste-free ice.) When the mixture begins to congeal, pour it over the pears and place in refrigerator until set. To spare last minute furies, this salad may be completely finished even to placing it on individual plates before hand. The lettuce is certain to remain crisp and the cream cheese deliciously fresh, if stored in a clean, moist atmosphere such as the modern air-conditioned ice refrigerator provides. When the salad is firm, trace around each pear with a slightly-larger heart-shaped cardboard pattern (tied on one side). Carefully lift out with pancake turner and place on individual plates of striped lettuce. Blend together 1 package cream cheese, 4 teaspoons lemon juice, and 1 tablespoon confectionary sugar, and pipe a lace edge on each heart.
