DUPLICATE MEN'S PENCIL HIS INSTRUMENT; D. HUBERT BONEY MAKES FARM A MODEL

D. Hubert Boney, a farmer from Tenbury, N. C., is regarded as one of the leading farmers of eastern Carolina. Boney farms on the principle that a pencil is the best instrument to use, and no project can remain on his place unless it pays. For years he has been regarded as a "Grade A" farmer, being somewhat in advance of this movement in the State. He also believes in intensive cultivation. There are only 73 acres in the Boney farm, but 200 working days are utilized each year.

Boney has 20 head of pure bred Jersey cows, 50 head of Duroc hogs, a flock of over 100 chickens, six acres of strawberries, 40 acres of corn with which legumes are interplanted, an excellent garden and a modern 10-room farm home equipped with every modern convenience. He operates on a cash basis and has an income every month in the year from five cash crops of beans, cotton, tobacco, truck and strawberries and two income sources from livestock. "On most of our land we grow food and sell it as milk and pork."

D. HUBERT BONEY
Convention President

Boney says, "We believe the day is not far distant when eastern North Carolina will become more conscious of grass and livestock and when our farmers will have a steady income. Then he will not be so dependent on the credit system and will look to his herds and soil building practices for food for his crops instead of buying it in a guano bag."

Workstock Breeding Increases In State

North Carolina farmers are now keeping thousands of dollars at home each year by raising their own horses and mules, according to Earl H. Hostetter, professor of animal husbandry at State College. There has been a marked increase in the number of horse and mule colts bred and raised in this State within the past three years as farmers have become to depend less on Western states for their workstock supply. At the present time, North Carolina growers buy annually almost 30,000 mules and 4,000 horses at the cost of $8,500,000 from outside the State. On January 1, 1938, the combined value of horses and mules was over $58,000,000 which was more than twice the combined value of all cattle, sheep, and swine on that date, Hostetter said.

$80,000,000 MALL FOR NEW YORK

NEW YORK—Determined that the New York World's Fair 1939 shall live in memory as the most elaborate artistic project ever attempted by an exposition, Grover A. Whalen, President of the Fair Corporation, has decided that $80,000,000 will be spent on the Central Mall, a dignified yet sparkling, mile-long esplanade, beautiful with lagoons, statuary, murals, reliefs, fountains, trees, benches, hedges and flowers.

$1,500,000 SPENT FOR LANDSCAPING

NEW YORK—When the gates of the New York World's Fair open on April 30th, 1939, approximately $1,500,000 will have been spent on trees, shrubs, hedges, flowers and grass to convert what was once a series of ash heaps in a swamp into a 1216 1-2 acre park-like exposition, the most artistically beautiful in the history of world fairs.

Lumberton Prepares for Tobacco Season

Lumberton, Feb. 17.—Warm spring-like weather that is bringing millions of young tobacco plants through the ground is also stimulating activity in Lumberton warehouse circles. It has enabled the owners of Liberty Warehouse No. 1 to begin the clearing of the lot where the Liberty No. 2 will be built and actual construction on this warehouse will start soon. The Liberty Warehouse No. 2 will be on the same lot, adjoining the Liberty No. 1, and the two houses will probably be under the same roof. In that case they will have a combined floor space of nearly 100,000 square feet and this building will be one of the largest structures in the world devoted to the auction sale of leaf tobacco. Both houses will be under the same management, Herman Bouldin and R. E. (Ed) Wilkins who have been on the Lumberton market several years will be at these houses, and, in addition, Paul Taylor of Winston Salem. Mr. Taylor is an outstanding warehouseman in the Old Belt, his house having the reputation of leading the Winston market for a number of years. He is well known in the Border Belt, having been on the Whiteville market for the past three years.
