ABOUT BUYING LAND

It is not our business to advise individuals as to the purchase of land. Such advice would necessarily be based upon futile effort to foresee what will take place.

At the same time, it is our obligation to call attention to existing trends, to give facts and to report responsible opinion.

Consequently, we report that Secretary of Agriculture Wickard is concerned with "the threatening land boom," reflected by the increase in both sales and values of land.

Nevertheless, the present trend is strongly suggestive of the boom which occurred during and after the first World War.

TRYING TO FIND THE FACTS

The value of a free press to the people of a country depends upon its accuracy in publishing the news and its fairness in presenting conclusions.

While thoroughly appreciating the difficulties under which most newspaper writers labor, we call attention to a recent observation by Elmer Davis, Director of the Office of War Information.

Mr. Davis asserted that the practice of newspapers "of trying to find out what the facts are is not as general as it was 20 or 25 years ago."

Beginning at a maple on the north run of Muddy Creek, at the north west corner of the E. G. Batts tract of land, now owned by the G. B. D. Parker heirs, and runs thence with the said Batts line south 24 1-4 east 3100 feet to a stake, the north east corner of the homestead tract, thence along the homestead line south 54 1-2 west 580 feet to a stake, in H. D. Laniers line, the north west corner of the homestead tract, thence along said Laniers line north 24 1-4 west 2540 feet to a black gum, on the north run of Muddy Creek.

NAZIS ON DEFENSIVE ON ALL FRONTS

RED ARMY BARELY FAILS TO CATCH GERMANS IN TRAP BUT KEEP ON SETTING OUT BAIT

The sweep of the Red Army through the Ukraine is underway but despite threatened disasters the Germans seem to have retreated without losing any great number of prisoners.

Time and again the Russians have seemed on the verge of cutting off large segments of the Nazi invaders but every time the trap has closed just a little too late to catch the enemy.

There is no doubt of the extent of the Red Army's supremacy in the fighting now going on but, just the same, to avoid error, it is intelligent to observe the success with which the Teutons are making their way homeward.

The Soviet very justly celebrates the recapture of vast areas of its soil, and although loss of Russian territory is not fatal to Nazi defenses, it is a mortal blow to Hitler's dream of a new order in Europe.

The Germans would not have voluntarily surrendered the land and cities for which they paid such a heavy price. Despite the orderly nature of the withdrawal, which gives testimony to the discipline among Nazi soldiers, the abandonment of Russian soil has been the result of military pressure.

Operations in Italy Proceed The steady retirement of the German army in Italy continues, along with the withdrawal in Russia. The two fighting fronts carry no good news to the Nazis.

In Italy, the Nazis have taken up good positions but, each time, the Anglo-American armies have patiently brought up adequate strength before attacking. This policy is responsible for the relative low casualty lists that come from Italy.

Italian Bases Will Help From captured airfields in Italy the bombing of Germany will be intensified. Quite likely the tonnage of explosives dropped upon Germany will soon total 50,000 tons a month.

The map reveals that Italian bases will be of material aid in bombing parts of Austria and Czechoslovakia, which are more than 600 miles from English bases.

Since 1939 there have been many attacks against German held centers. The heaviest hit areas are within 400 miles of English bases. In this zone the Rhur has been visited 289 times, Manheim 83, Cologne 122, Bremen 106, Emden 87, Wilhelmshaven 81.

The campaign in the Pacific is slowly moving to a stage where the Japanese will be compelled to make a decisive attempt to halt our advances. This may happen before this article appears in print.

The fate of Japan rests upon the sea and it is necessary, if the Japanese are to prolong their struggle, that they retain enough control to supply and reinforce their outposts.

The Japs must meet the threat or give ground that is vital to their aims.

Knox Endorses Pulpwood Drive

Navy Secretary, Frank Knox, recently endorsed the 27-State pulpwood campaign sponsored by the nation's newspapers in an effort to avert any further shortage of paper for essential civilian and military uses.

In a letter to Walter M. Dear, chairman of the Newspaper Pulpwood Committee, Knox declared the Navy looks to the producers of pulpwood - from which paper is made - to provide enough raw material to package the food, and supplies being shipped to Americans and Allied forces overseas.

The pulpwood cutter and the U.S. Navy have the same aim, it is to win this war as quickly as possible," Knox said.

"The woodmen who cut the pulpwood are doing their part to sustain the home front and back the boys who use a gun instead of an axe..."
