Noted Jurist Hailed From Duplin County

By: A. T. OUTLAW

Kenansville.—On a drowsy summer afternoon years ago, the proprietor of the Cooper Hotel here stirred from his chair to greet a short, stocky stranger coming thru the front gate.

The man was traveling alone and on foot. Although well dressed and apparently well educated, he appeared very modest and identified himself only as Kornegay. The hotel keeper showed him to a room and returned to his chair with the other hotel boarders on the front porch.

Early next morning, the guest was up and out early. Not until he checked out of the hotel did the proprietor discover that his guest was a distinguished son of old Duplin who had returned to view the scene of a happy childhood.

The guest had been the Honorable Wade Hampton Kornegay, conspicuous in the early development of the State of Oklahoma and once Associate Justice of the Oklahoma Supreme Court.

Kornegay occupied a high place among the sons of Duplin County who have gained wide fame at home and abroad.

Born on Duplin Farm He was born on a farm near Outlaw's Bridge, April 17, 1865. His father, Henry Robert Kornegay, was a Baptist minister, Clerk of Superior Court and a lawyer.

His mother was Jeanette Williams of a well known Wayne County family. He was the youngest of several children by his father's first marriage. Soon after the war the family moved from the farm to Kenansville where the father was an attorney and where the children attended school.

Judge Kornegay attended the old Grove Academy and the Millard Seminary in Kenansville, where men went to school, and then entered Wake Forest College when 15 years of age. He graduated from that institution with a Master of Arts degree in 1884 and was valedictorian of the class.

At the time of his death on November 19, 1939, Judge Kornegay had lived in Vinita for a period of 48 years and was probably that city's most widely known citizen.

Most offices and places of business in the city were closed for the funeral service and among the pallbearers were a number of outstanding citizens of the State, including ex-Governor Murray, Governor LeCom, C. Phillips, Colonel Walter D. Humphrey, Judges Fullerton, Kenemer, Shipman, Stone and many others of equal dignity.

Judge Kornegay left a widow, two sons and two daughters, all of Oklahoma.

balance of his life, except while in public service.

He had lived in Vinita only one year when he issued a call to the Democrats of Indian Territory to meet in convention and name delegates to represent the territory in the national Democratic convention of that year. From that time he was recognized as a leading citizen of the territory. He was always proud of the fact that he, as a very young man and a beginner in public affairs, had been the one to call that convention, then 15 years before the territory became a State.

He was a leader in the movement to form a new state, the State of Oklahoma, served as a member of the constitutional convention of 1906 and drafted the State constitution. He was a staunch supporter of William H. (Alfalfa Bill) Murray for president of that convention, and the two men became lifelong friends. Later Murray became Governor and remembered his old friend by appointing him as a member of the State Supreme Court.

Another outstanding member of that convention was Colonel Walter D. Humphrey, a native of Richlands, Onslow County, who had studied law in the office of Judge Kornegay in Vinita. Colonel Humphrey later became chairman of the State Corporation Commission and held other important places in the government.

After Oklahoma became a state, Judge Kornegay limited his activities to the practice of law. His reputation as a law counselor spread throughout Oklahoma and he was one of the best known lawyers of the state. Recognizing his ability as a lawyer, Governor Murray appointed him in 1931 to fill an unexpired term as a member of the State Supreme Court and in that position he served with credit and distinction for about two years. Then again he limited his activities to the practice of law and the management of his large estate.

At the time of his death on November 19, 1939, Judge Kornegay had lived in Vinita for a period of 48 years and was probably that city's most widely known citizen. Most offices and places of business in the city were closed for the funeral service and among the pallbearers were a number of outstanding citizens of the State, including ex-Governor Murray, Governor LeCom, C. Phillips, Colonel Walter D. Humphrey, Judges Fullerton, Kenemer, Shipman, Stone and many others of equal dignity.

Judge Kornegay left a widow, two sons and two daughters, all of Oklahoma.

State College Hints To Home Makers

Many a housewife has an eager interest in collecting new recipes. Some surveys indicate that the average housewife is more interested in new recipes than in the basic principles of cookery - or the foundation recipes developed from them. Yet a knowledge of these relatively few foundations may make her a better cook than a whole library of cookbooks and recipe clippings.

Once familiar with the basic principles of recipes, you are set to take it from there and develop your own brand of cookery.

Aviation Cadets

Applications for aviation cadet classes are now being received, and should be submitted early in order that the applicant may receive his basic training in time to enter an early April course. An officer will be at the Recruiting Main Station in Fayetteville on Feb. 15 and 16 to interview applicants for this training. Make an appointment with him through 1st Sgt. Norwood Liles, whose office is located at

Southern Farm Market Summary

In spite of reduced shipments of hogs this week, prices dropped from 50 to 75 cents per 100 pounds and general cattle prices were also down 50 cents to $2, though some scarce types of cattle sold strong to $1 higher.

Broiler markets were generally about steady. Demand was good and stacks cleared well in all areas. Movement of fresh fruits and vegetables from southeastern loading points was moderate to liberal. Citrus fruits reacted to crop damage from other sections, and price of oranges moved up slightly.

Spot cotton prices recorded a decline of 60 cents a bale in the 10 spot markets for the week ending Friday. Closing quotations for midling 15-16 inch staple Friday was $2.64.
