EXPERIMENT STATION RELEASES BULLETIN

A new bulletin on "Opportunities for Adjustment in Farming Systems, Southern Piedmont Area, North Carolina" has just been issued by the North Carolina Agricultural Experiment Station and copies are available on request.

The publication enables a farmer to preview his chances with a new enterprise before he begins the changeover and applies particularly to the counties of Polk, Rutherford, Cleveland, Gaston, Lincoln, Mecklenburg, Union, Anson, Stanly, Rowan, Cabarrus, Iredell, and Catawba.

John A. Arey, State College, reports this week that North Carolina's fall series of junior cattle shows, just concluded, has been unusually successful this year.

The shows, sponsored by business firms and civic organizations were held under the direction of the College's dairy extension department.

A total of 710 registered dairy cattle were shown by boys and girls under 21 years of age in four districts shows which covered the entire State. A banquet was held in connection with each show.

In addition to the district shows approximately 800 calves were shown in 18 county and local shows which served as preliminary elimination contests for the larger events.

Arey said the junior shows are serving to stimulate young people's interest in dairy cattle and train them in care and management of their animals.

New Business For Pink Hill

The Belle Oil Company has opened a new business in Pink Hill, just off the main street next to the telephone office. M. James Miles is manager and co-owner along with Melvin Jones. In addition to supplying fuel oil they now operate an electrical appliance business. Johnnie Westbrook is their electrical service man. They carry the complete Frigidaire line of refrigerators, washing machines, water heaters, also the Coleman oil heaters, Barton washers and a complete line of small electrical appliances. They do electrical wiring and repairing, plumbing repairs and installations.

Clinic Drug Mt. Olive's Newest

Recently Jack Lister of Mt. Olive and Shelton Boyd of Lillington opened Mt. Olive's newest business. The Clinic Drug Company, the town's modern drug store, opened next door to the Henderson-Crumpler Clinic. They carry a general line of patent medicines, drugs, drug sundries, toilet articles magazines, etc. They have installed a new modern soda fountain. Prescriptions are their specialties.

Burgaw Police Arrest Wallace Taxi Driver

Burgaw, Oct. 14.—In a further effort to crack down on the shipment of whiskey into dry Pender County, Burgaw police arrested a Wallace taxi driver and his woman companion and charged them with violation of the liquor laws.

Released under bond are Norman Cottle and Mrs. Vera Bradshaw. Porter Ward said that 15 pints of tax paid whiskey, purchased in Jacksonville, were found in a cab driven by Cottle. North Carolina law does not permit taxicabs to transport whiskey.

Specifically Cottle is charged with possession and transportation of tax-paid whiskey for sale. Mrs. Bradshaw is being charged with aiding and abetting the transportation. They are scheduled to go on trial here next Tuesday.
