examination of the state's fin condition, and on January 30 be-gins a month of public hearings on requests from agencies for funds not recommended by the Advisory Budget Commission. Meanwhile, 2 committees re-examining 1949 permanent improvements appropria-tions insufficient to meet 1951 costs took the headlines, When the House approved $175,000 appropriation to meet the low bid for the Agricultural Building annex was referred to the Senate's subcommittee examining unspent 1949 grants, prospects for State approval before the January 22 deadline were slim. Then the contract expiration date was extended to January 25. On the afternoon of the 24th the subcommittee worked out a solution. With the Attorney General's ap-proval, it was decided to transfer sufficient funds from a warehouse project to the annex and consider the warchouse along with the other 1949 items. On January 25 the contracts was let. On the other hand, uncertainty marked the investigation into construction of the State Fair coliseum under 1949 appropriations. While some farm leaders underscored the need and value of the building in a public hearing on Tuesday, rumors from Washington led to a belief that the construction now proceeding would come under the National Producttio Agency's ban on the use of steel for non-essential purposes. Despite efforts to secure an opinion from NPA no official approval had been received by Friday, nor had the legislature's committee made its report. The probability of both federal and legislative endorsement increases each day concrete is poured and materials are purchased. Public Welfare

The anxiety of prisoners in unsafe jails would be allayed by SB 96 requiring an attendant on duty to inspect all cells at reasonable intervals. The same bill would prevent women prisoners from being confined more than 24 hours unless the jail has a matron. SB 97 would allow temporary confinement of the mentally disordered in hospitals and other suitable places as well as in county jails. Other bills would raise the age to which parents must children a misdemeanor (SB 154), Governmental Reorganizati Te General Assembly now has a bill (SB 110) calling for submission of a constitutional amendment to require realignment of executive agencies so that by 1954 only 12 departments could exist under the law exclusive of those headed by elective officials and temporary commissions created for special purposes. If adopted by the people the amendment would also place all personnel of the executive branch below department heads under a merit system.

Election Laws On recommendation of the State Board of Elections bills were introduced in the Senate this week to remove all limits on the expenditure of funds in campaigns for election, to abolish use of absentee ballot in general elections by civilians and to require campaign literature to bear the name of the author and printer. Criminal Procedure

Implementing a constitutional mendment approved last November, HB 112 permits indictments to be waived in non-capital criminal cases provided written consent of filed. HB 120 is designed to prevent a person from being prosecuted on the basis of evidence taken from him in the course of an illegal search without a warrant. HB 115 proposes a commission to study the advisibility of setting uniform cost hills in traffic cases in courts below the superor court.
