Fall Belongs To You

Days have been so beautiful, so glorious recently. And they will be that way for another few weeks. Drink them in. Early Fall in all its beauty belongs to you.

Are you young? If you are, you probably are in love. Share the splendor and the color and the bright days and faint haze, the purple twilight, the silvery nights with your beloved. Ride into the secluded rural areas and open your eyes and note what God has wrought. You will dream dreams and open your heart with the old longings. And if she is with you and understands and your dreams meet you have locked in you for the rest of your days a golden splendor.

If you are middle aged. Kick over the traces. Heed that strange, lonely urge that moves you as you look into the blue yonder. Tell the boss you have some business to attend to. Call the wife and go out into the fields where the wind rustles and speaks of long ago and other men and other climes. Walk together down some wooded road where the green boughs, red and gold in their fall clothing, entwine their arms. You will be young again and you will soar free from life's little irritants and frustrations.

And if you are old. Look long and look truly at the scene before you. See what God hath wrought. Listen to the noises in the brush and in the fields. Is that bird singing just for you? Does it seem that the bird songs are a little faster and more melodious? Feel the pull of Fall at your heart strings and know that you feel what man has felt since time began. Listening and searching you are in tune with the great heart of nature, its plan and its purpose.

Yet a little while and man goes to his long home. Savor to the full the strange sweetness of Fall and its crisp nights, cool, bracing mornings, and warm, relaxing days. Drink your fill. Fall belongs to you—HENRY BELK in the Goldsboro News-Argus.

THE CHRISTMAS SEAL CAMPAIGN

Each year, as the Christmas season approaches, the National Tuberculosis Association carries on its annual Christmas Seal campaign. And it would be hard indeed to find a cause more worthy of public interest and support.

Great strides have been made in fighting tuberculosis—due in no small part to the work of the Association, and to the financial success past sales have achieved. But a great deal more remains to be done and must be done. The latest estimate indicate that 250,000 Americans have active TB, 100,000 of them unknown to health authorities. In addition, there are 1,750,000 people with inactive TB and 350,000 of them are still in need of medical supervision or public health follow-up. And an estimated 55,000,000 Americans—a third of the population—are infected with the germs that cause TB. Some 2,700,000 of this huge group will develop TB in their lifetimes, if the present rate of development of disease from infection continues.

Early diagnosis and immediate treatment are essential in the control of TB. Education of the public and continued research are other vital weapons in this war. The Christmas Seal Sale supports the work of the 5,000 voluntary tuberculosis associations in this country and its possessions. Significantly, of the money raised each year in local communities, 94 per cent remains within the state.

Nematodes are a principal cause of lost farm income. Fertilizer placement affects yield.

The Lord hath heard my supplication; the Lord will receive my prayer.—(Psalm 6, 9.)

God hears the faintest, unspoken prayer that wells up from our hearts, the silent supplication that forms on our lips—and even as we pray in faith and trust, He is answering; for He is always listening, ever loving and merciful.

4-Point Program to Insure Real Economy Is Urged by the NAM

Alarmed at the Budget Bureau's announcement that federal spending is increasing despite the congressional economy drive, the National Association of Manufacturers has called on the government to adopt a four-point program which it said would insure real economy.

- 1—Control appropriated funds through the system of allocation to the operating agencies, as provided by the Budget and Accounting Act;
- 2—Review the backlog of prior appropriations and rescind all for which no overpowering case can be made;
- 3—Maintain a fiscal climate which would encourage economy, in order to reduce pressures for special spending projects;
- 4—Avoid new programs and review existing ones to determine those that should be eliminated, curtailed, or transferred to state and local jurisdictions.

The budget-making authorities in the Executive Branch, Mr. Sligh said, determine the amount of the budget and they have, therefore, the principal responsibility for initiating reductions in it. The widespread protest against the 1958 budget is a popular verdict in favor of a lower level of federal spending. This protest should be heeded in Washington.
