DEAR FRIENDS:

U. S. Dept. of Agriculture — Forest Laboratory and F.H.A. minimums shows Douglas Fir to be equal in strength to Southern Pine or any other important building lumber.

In fact, West Coast Lumber has more No. 1 & 2 ratings in desirable wood properties than any other building lumber. Douglas Fir rates No. 1 in strength No. 2 in checking, weathering, warping, twisting, cupping, glue holding, insulating, and workability.

Redwood rates No. 1 in all above characteristics except strength and workability where it rates No. 2. For comparison of other woods some rated as low as No. 5. Come see our charts.
