bandry Extension at North Carolina State College.

George D, Jones, head of Entomology Extension, left for Western North Carolina yesterday. He planned to check with county agricultural agents and livestock producers in the area bordering Tennessee and Georgia on the chances of infestation there.

North Carolina last had a few serious outbreaks of screwworms in isolated counties during the late Forties.

One factor that keeps North Carolina out of screwworm trouble is that it gets too cold, usually, in the state for the maggots to survive the winter.

Control officials in Washington urge producers to: 1. Inspect livestock theroughly and often until cold weather.

2. Place ten maggots from an infested wour, in alcohol or water and notify the county agent. 3. Treat all wounds with EQ-335 at least once a week.

4. Treat from moving animals until they've been inspected and wounds treated.

5. Notify county agent at destination if they move animals into the southern parts of Georgia, Alabama Florida.

Screwworm was a major problem in Florida and some other southeastern states until a few years ago. Scientists of the U. S. Department of Agriculture eradicated the fly by atomic sterilization of males.

OKLAHOMA

The Capitol building at Oklahoma City is remarkable for two reasons. (1) because it has no dome and (2) it is built right over a huge petroleum pool. Oil is pumped from directly underneath the building. The State Historical Bullding is nearby and houses Indian archives second only to those in the Smithsonian Institution. Oklahoma City is particularly interesting to visit, and oil derricks can be seen crowding the domeless Capitol,

Or at night too for that matter because an electric dryes is

You don't even have to be there.

While you attend the P.T.A. or do the family shopping, the electric dryer will gently tumble your clothes to a fresh, fuffy finish. You'll leve the way everything feels so soft, smells so fresh, stays so clean. That's because the electric dryer, like your electric light, is flameless, fameless, completely free of

We might as well tell you straight off: Corvair's the car for the driving enthusiast. Think that lets you out? Maybe. Maybe not.

Until you've driven one, you really can't say for sure, because Corvair's kind of driving is like no other in the land. The air-cooled rear engine sees to that. You swing around curves flat as you please. You whip through the sticky spots other cars should keep out of in the first place. (Especially this year, now that you can get Positraction as an extra-cost option.)

You stop smoothly, levelly with Corvair's beautifully balanced, bigger brakes.

Corvair's found other new ways to please you this year. A forced-air heater and defroster are standard equipment on all coupes, sedans and both Monza and 700 Station. Wagons. So are dual sunshades and front-door armrests and some other goodies. You'll note some new styling, inside and out. Nice. And safety-belt installation is easier, too, and cheaper.

So you can see we haven't really done much to Corvair this year. Why on earth should we? If this car, just as she is, can't make a driving enthusiast out of you, better take a cab.
