

Advance ticket sale for "Ice Capades of 1967" which will be presented in the William Neal Reynolds Coliseum at North Carolina State College March 21-24, are the best in 10 years for this production, Coliseum Director Roy B. Clouston said Wednesday.

Six performances of the world-famed Ice Capades, produced by John H. Harris, will be staged in the State College Coliseum during the four-day run.

The opening performance will be given in the Coliseum on Wednesday, March 21, at 8 p. m. with subsequent evening shows through Saturday, March 24, and with matinee performances on Friday, March 23, at 2:30 p. m. and on Saturday, March 24, at 2:00 p. m.

High school and elementary children will be admitted at half price for the Friday matinee.

Tickets for the shows are on sale in Raleigh, Durham, and Fayetteville.

"Ice Capades, now marking its 21st season, is featured this year by 19 production numbers and 20 acts ranging from four operas staged on ice to slapstick comedy.

Jimmy Grogan and Ais Zarova, both world champions, again head the list of ten performers. Other outstanding performers include Peter Voss, Helma Naff, The Emeralds, Louise Orwell, and the Max Telle, an exciting acrobatic team making their first appearance with Ice Capades.

The Bruises, comedy team with charwomen costumes, and "The Clown Prince," Hans Leiber, are back with two new members.

Owner-producer Harris, who has added a brilliant array of new costumes, has produced a number of novelty numbers for this year's show. Among these is the fantasy, "The Wizard of Oz." A sequence from "South Pacific" includes "Some Enchanted Evening" and "There is Nothing Like a Dame." "Bayanihan on Ice" is an authentic interpretation of Philippine folk dances.

Skaters add a new dimension to segments from four operas—"Manon," "La Traviata," "Tannhauser," and "Il Trovatore." Many of the great musical comedy moments of the past half century are recaptured in "Salute to Rodgers and Hammerstein."

The precision skating lines of the "Ice Spets" and "Ice Cadets" glide through the intricate maneuvers in the "Ballet Militaire."

"Ice Capades" current show represents an investment of more than one million dollars.

Newspaper critics throughout the country have unanimously applauded this year's Ice Capades show.

The New York Times called it "an enterprise of taste and ingenuity, just as eye appealing and grandiose as ever."

The New York Herald Tribune declared, "Like its predecessors, a whopping good show. Packed with fun, spectacle and, most important, good skating."

James Davis of the New York Daily News said, "Ice Capades was the best thing we've seen on ice. We came away from Madison Square Garden (site of the New York performance) 'bug-eyed at the splendor of it all.'"

Richard H. Farrell, Coliseum box office manager, said six box offices are handling ticket sales for the convenience of Ice Capades fans.

The offices are located in the Coliseum, State College, the Village Pharmacy in Cameron Village, and Womble, Inc., all in Raleigh; Border Drug Store, Fayetteville; and Walgreen's Drug Store, Durham.

Crime and Punishment

Fear follows crime, and is its punishment.

Every man who observes vigilantly and resolves steadfastly grows unconsciously into genius.

He said: "This bill provides for, first, feed grain and wheat marketing quotas, land diversion, and price support programs; second, a dairy adjustment and price support program; third, price allotments for milk, turkeys, and turkey hatcheries; fourth, adjustment directed toward conservation and more economic use, including recreation and fish and wildlife protection; fifth, amendment of Public Law 480 to provide broader authority for the disposal of surplus agricultural commodities; and sixth, miscellaneous provisions dealing with marketing research and development projects for milk, loans for recreational facilities and sewers, use of the Agricultural Credit Insurance Fund for direct loans for immediate resale, and budgetary handling of REA loan funds."

NC Farmers - For the first time this bill undertakes to apply virtually the same kind of program that we have had for some years in tobacco and peanut programs to feed grain area. The bill does not change the tobacco and peanut allotment programs which have meant so much to North Carolina farmers and have worked so well in this

Wants Opinions Of People On New Farm Bill Now Before United States Congress

Washington - Hearings are under way on the Food and Agriculture Bill for 1962 which was presented to the Senate by Senator Ellender on February 2. North Carolina's economy is based in large measure on a sound farm program. This bill is of utmost importance to our state and nation. The bill has as its purposes the improvement and protection of farm income, the reduction of costs of farm programs to the Federal Government, the reduction of the Federal Government's excessive stocks of agricultural commodities, the maintenance of reasonable and stable prices of agricultural commodities and products to consumers, and the conservation of our natural resources.

Increasing Productivity - The reduction of farm surpluses is one of the most difficult problems facing the Nation. Early this century when the last of the frontier lands were settled, public policy, research, and conservation of our land resources were focused on increasing our agricultural productivity. Great strides have been made in agricultural productivity so that now even though we are harvesting from 40 million fewer acres than we have in production today for a population which according to estimates will have increased by 65 million. The plight of the farmers and the government is simply that supply and demand must be brought into line. The fundamental concept of the bill endeavors to cope with this situation. The bill presented to the Senate Agricultural Committee has a number of controversial features in it, and undoubtedly it will undergo a great many changes when it is finally presented to the Senate.

Summary of Bill - When he introduced the agricultural bill, Senator Ellender made a short sum-

In analyzing the figures that will be published to support the attempt to slash U.S. protective tariffs to tie in with the so-called European Common Market, it is perhaps important to bear in mind the story about the government statistician who drowned while wading across a river with an average depth of two feet.

Striped of all non-essential verbiage, the plans proposed have but one final result. That C. W. Harter is the establishment in the United States of a bureaucratic economic dictatorship.

Perhaps the best evidence of this result is found in the publication "Import Competition and Small Business" written by Howard S. Piquet, senior specialist in international economics of Library of Congress.

Drawing most of his data from 1954 as his latest date which was before the full effect of modern production machinery given to European nations by the U. S. give away programs, and before the rounds of wages increases in U. S. since then, and before the increase in the minimum wage that was made law, he finds that many American industries cannot compete with wages scales of Europe in a free market.

He points out, due to European subsidies, other measures, Big Business can protect itself. It is the small business of America that will suffer. But he also raises the question whether or not those American industries which are primarily National Federation of Independent Business ly areas of operation for small business should be permitted to exist.

The report indicates that probably some American industries should, by government edict, be pronounced inefficient and thus be permitted to be destroyed by cheap foreign imports.

Under this plan, if it is proposed, that the business operating in these condemned industries be urged to produce something else, with the government giving them loans to re-tool or otherwise revamp their operations.

In addition, the government will put up the money to retrain the workers in these firms in new skills.

This, then, could be the final step to establish a dictatorship in America. Eventually, it would also lead to government telling farmers what they could plant; could not plant.

After all, bureaucracy now tells business how it shall keep books, how much it shall collect in taxes for government, the lowest wages business can pay. In addition, an agreement on wages and hours reached in Pittsburgh must be adhered to by a small plant in Idaho Falls. In short, bureaucracy has already made great strides in dictating how business shall be done in this nation.

So it is not surprising that the drive is now on for the ultimate step.

And that is to dictate what kinds of activity a business may or may not engage in so that this nation of Harvard, by Harvard and for Harvard shall not perish from the earth.
