CAROLINA TELEPHONE COMPLETES $10 MILLION EXPANSION PROGRAM

Tarboro — Carolina Telephone Company kept pace with technological trends, introducing new services and adopting new methods, during 1961, providing telephone service for more and more citizens of eastern North Carolina. These comments were made Friday by Carolina Telephone President H. Dall Holderness in reporting on 1961 operations at the company's annual meeting of stockholders.

"Long distance conversations rose about 6 percent. The company completed more than 13 million long distance messages—the largest flow of traffic in the history of the company. "Telephones gained numbered 13,202, bringing the total stations in service to 209,063. Rural installations accounted for the majority of the additional telephones," Holderness reported.

The president noted that in 1961 Carolina Telephone continued its longrange program to provide the most modern possible telephone service in its operating area. To this end, the company in 1961:

Completed a $10 million cross construction to provide central office facilities for normal telephone growth and additional cable to render new service. At the year end, total telephone plant investment amounted to more than $108 million. Inaugurated direct distance dialing for subscribers in Wilson and nearby communities. This service was also established at Ocracoke. At the end of 1961, telephone users in 48 of the company's 111 exchanges had access to this nationwide toll dialing.

Expanded its microwave system to create additional circuits, virtually stormproof, to New Bern area.

Installed in the Accounting Department a new computer system to expedite the preparation of subscriber bills, payrolls, and statistical developed models of private branch exchanges.

Earnings per average showed a slight increase over those of the previous year. Dividends were paid at the annual rate of $1.60 per share—the same as in 1960.

"The results attained during the year are a direct tribute to the loyalty and hard work of all employees. I am confident that with the vigorous and continuing sup-
