It's travel time! Where in this good land of ours can you find more exciting natural beauty than in the Tar Heel State - Variety Vacationland?

The 43 peaks in the Land of the Sky, all about 6,000 feet in altitude, beckon to you. Here the Appalachian chain seems to have united and fused together and then to break up in a confusion of lofty peaks with a labyrinth of intervening valleys. This is the land of rhododendron, mountain laurel, cool breezes, clear waters and fighting trout.

At the other end of this 500-mile strip of land we call Tar Heel the ghost of Nags Head beckons. Here the rivers become sounds and the sounds meet the ocean in a never-ending restlessness. Dunes are piled high by the ever-shifting sands and trees bend away from the salt spray. Every Tar Heel should be able to claim a trip down the most famous outer banks in the world. Go to Hatteras this summer.

For the mountaineer, a trip to the East with stops at Old Salem, Tryon Palace and The Lost Colony will be rewarding and an adventure you will not soon forget. There are many interesting stops in between, and the fish will be biting in coastal waters.

For the easterner, don't stop until you have driven on a section of the Blue Ridge Parkway, the most popular and scenic drive in Eastern America. And while you are about this business of discovering North Carolina, stop off at Boone and see "Horn in the West" or Cherokee and see "Unto These Hills."

Don't put it off any longer. Let's go! If you do, I am sure that our paths will cross somewhere along the line of travel because we always get in at least

Dairy Foods Are June's Best Food Buys

June Dairy Month is celebrating its 26th anniversary this month. The purpose of the popular yearly event is to salute the dairy industry of America. June Dairy Month is also geared to awaken the American people to the need for using dairy products for proper nutrition and diet habits.

Last year 17 1/2 mil. cows on over a million dairy farms produced nearly 57 billion quarts of milk. The June Dairy Month celebration coincides with the busiest season in dairying, when milk production is at its peak in many parts of the country.

Every American consumed the equivalent of over 640 pounds of milk in all forms last year.

Studies of consumer food expenditures showed that for the 19 cents of the "market basket dollar" that Americans spent on milk products, the American family obtained 23.26% of their calories, 40.45% of their protein, 75.81% of their calcium, 59.76% of their riboflavin, 33.39% of the Vitamin A, 18.19% of their thiamine and 5.65% of their iron and niacin.

"I have long been convinced that milk is an important aid to good health," commented President Kennedy at the Milk and Nutrition Conference held in Washington, D. C. last January. "This has led me to direct that milk be served at every White House meal from now on. And I expect that all of us will benefit from it."

Problems for which veteran need the specialized help of Veterans Administration social workers have not decreased in the years since Korea and World War II.

Indications are that sick and disabled veterans have many faded wartime problems for peace-time ones.

In fact, the VA social work caseload has been increasing steadily, according to J. D. DeRamus, manager of the North Carolina Veterans Administration Regional office.

DeRamus said Social workers completed services for more than 279,000 veterans by fiscal 1961 compared with approximately 250,000 during fiscal 1960, 250,000 in time after they leave the hospital, DeRamus said.

The number was 7,617 in fiscal 1953; 9,985 in fiscal 1955; 13,200 in fiscal 1957; 16,482 during fiscal '59; 17,330 in fiscal 1960, and 20,907 during fiscal 1961. During 1961 almost 4,000 VA mental patients lived in foster homes, halfway houses, and other special community facilities.

Look upon every day as the whole of life, not merely as a section; and enjoy and improve the present without wishing, through haste, to rush on to another.

- Jean Paul Richter

Vacancies for social workers exist at VA hospitals and outpatient clinics across the nation. Those who hold a graduate degree in social work may apply for VA employment to the Central Board of U. S. Civil Service Examiners, Veterans Administration Central Office, Washington 25, D. C.

About 80 percent of all VA hospital mental patients returned to their communities are under VA social work supervision for some
