

Commissioner Warns Farmers On Mixing Leftover Treated Seeds

There is a reassurance for consumers, but a sharp warning for farmers, in a statement released today by John R. Reibel, Assistant Commissioner of Agriculture for North Carolina. A large number of grain buyers have equipment for detecting poison treated seed in food or feed grains offered for sale by farmers, he said, and this will drastically reduce the chances for the poisonous materials ever getting into trade channels.

Inspectors of the state and federal departments of agriculture have been similarly equipped for some time, he said, and will continue close inspection to see that grains containing poisonous materials do not move to food or feed processors.

Grain dealers cannot afford to take a chance, because once they have bought the grain they become responsible for its wholesomeness, and if it is found contaminated they must bear the loss when officials stop its sale or order its destruction. There is no tolerance for these highly toxic substances, and once poisoned seed found in a truckload of grain means condemnation of the entire lot by either state or federal inspectors.

"Therefore, any farmer who is so short-sighted or careless as to mix left-over treated seed with his grain crop is likely to find no market for it, and he cannot even feed it to his own livestock without running a serious risk."

"Treating seed with poison for prevention of fungus and other plant diseases has become a great boon to farmers," he concluded, "and it is extreme folly for any individual farmer to make this benefit a hazard to his health or his pocket book. Caution should be used by those who handle and plant the seed, and any left-over seed should be immediately destroyed if it cannot be safely stored for use as seed another year."

Miss Alphin, Mr. Smith Wed Saturday

MOUNT OLIVE - Miss Clara Linda Alphin, daughter of Mrs. Fred Alphin of Mount Olive, Rt. 2, and the late Mr. Alphin, and Faison Delano Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Faison Smith of Alberson, were married Saturday in the Rooky Branch Free Will Baptist Church near Mount Olive. The Reverend Lauren Sharp of Kenansville performed the double-ring ceremony at half-past four o'clock in the afternoon.

A pulpit background of pine, palms and fern served as a foil for standards of yellow candles used in the chancel alternately with white urns of yellow gozas, gladioli, chrysanthemums and pompons. The altar rail was outlined with miniature palms and an arrangement of all-yellow flowers was on the piano.

The wedding music was by Edgar J. Wells, pianist, and Mrs. Stanley Byrd and Mrs. Charles Bell who sang respectively "I Love You Truly" and "The Lord's Prayer". The marches were traditional.

Revis S. Alphin gave his sister in marriage. Her gown was a Jenny Price original of silk organza over taffeta trimmed with Chantilly Lace. The Sabrina neckline was bordered with lace and lace appliques extended the length of the chapel train. The wedding veil of French illusion, attached to a tiara of pearl orange blossoms, had been worn by the bride's sister, Mrs. Bartley Greenwood, now in Germany, at her own wedding. The bridal bouquet, a white orchid showered with lillies-of-the-valley and stephanotis, was clasped to a white prayer book.

Miss LaRue Daughtie of Whitakers was maid-of-honor. Her sheath dress of yellow taffeta was styled with matching organza over-skirt, square neckline and cap sleeves. Her bouquet was of yellow chrysanthemums showered with yellow ribbon. Similarly gowned were the bridesmaids, Miss Peggy Alphin, the bride's sister; Mrs. James Hemphill of South Carolina, sister of the bridegroom; Mrs. Douglas Smith of Alberson, Mrs. Ray McDonald of Mount Olive, Miss Jessie

Miss Alphin, Mr. Smith Wed Saturday

Ellis of Tarboro, and Miss Hilda Owens of New Bern. They, too, carried yellow chrysanthemums.

The flower girl, Teresa Alphin of New Bern, a niece of the bride, carried a basket of yellow pom-pom chrysanthemums with ribbon streamers.

Jack Davis of Mount Olive, was ring bearer and Tony Winstead of Mount Olive, served as acolyte.

Mr. Smith's father was best man, Ushers were Oliver Alphin of Clinton, Fred Alphin of Charlotte, and William J. Alphin of Chapel Hill, brothers of the bride; Aaron Smith, brother of the bridegroom; Douglas Smith of Alberson, and James Hemphill of South Carolina.

Mrs. Alphin wore for her daughters wedding a sheer lavender afternoon dress with matching hat and accessories. The bridegroom's tuxedo was a blue eyelet embroidered costume with matching hat and short veil. Both wore orchids.

From the reception at which the bride's mother entertained at her home after the wedding, Mr. and Mrs. Smith left for a trip through the mountains of North Carolina. Her traveling dress was a white linen sheath with matching jacket and she wore the orchid from her wedding bouquet.

The bride is a graduate of the Kenansville High School and of East Carolina College, Greenville. For the past two years she has been a teacher in the New Bern school system. Mr. Smith is a graduate of the B. F. Grady High School and of North Carolina State College, Raleigh. Following completion of his tour of duty in the United States Army, the couple will live in Raleigh.

RECEPTION

The yellow motif which was followed in the wedding decorations was continued in the reception at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Fred Alphin.

In the living room on the piano was a large arrangement of yellow gladioli and yellow chrysanthemums, brass candelabra with yellow candles, and miniature bride and bridegroom. In the dining room, the table was covered with yellow silk overlaid with a hand-made cloth of white lace and the centerpiece was a grouping of yellow candles in silver holders and epergnettes of yellow and white flowers and maidenhair fern. Sideboard decorations included yellow gladioli and dahlias, Queen Anne's lace and Oregon fern.

Standard Form 57 may be obtained at the Post Office or Base Civilian Personnel Office and should be completed and mailed to the Board of U. S. Civil Service Examiners, Seymour Johnson Air Force Base, North Carolina. Open continuous.

Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Summerlin greeted the guests and presented them to the hostess. Receiving with Mrs. Alphin were Mr. and Mrs. Faison Smith, the bridal couple, and their attendants.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Alphin of New Bern gave the invitation to the dining room where Mrs. Paul Grady served individual bridal cakes and Mrs. Cecil Winstead poured punch. Buffet refreshments were bridal mints, buttered pecans and cheese stars. Assisting in the dining room were Miss Tony Rhodes, Miss Edna Gray Ivey, Mrs. Cyrus Rhodes and Mrs. Andy Ivey.

Mr. and Mrs. Revis Alphin directed registration in a nook distinguished by a picture of the bride and an arrangement of driftwood, a single lighted candle, and miniature wedding bells. Mrs. Stanley Byrd and Miss Lynn Price received in the gift room. Decorations here and in the hall and on the patio were of yellow flowers were chrysanthemums predominating.

Mr. and Mrs. Wendell Alphin said the goodbyes.

AFTER-REHEARSAL PARTY

Friday evening after the rehearsal for the Smith - Alphin wedding, Mrs. Clayton Summerlin, Mrs. Cecil Winstead, Mrs. Ray McDonald, in absentia, and Mrs. Brantley Greenwood, entertained at a cake-cutting.

Mrs. Winstead's home was decorated for the occasion with yellow flowers, Queen's lace and fern in combination with brass candelabra and bronze candles. Lending variety was an arrangement of white driftwood twined with ivy and placed in a setting of spider lillies and caladium leaves. The wedding motif was noted in silver wedding bells and bride and bridegroom figurines.

The traditional cake-cutting was in the dining room at a table covered with a lace and linen cloth and decorated with lighted yellow candles and epergnettes of yellow pompons, feverfew and Queen Anne's lace frilled with yellow net. Mrs. Smith, mother of the bridegroom-elect, served cake and Mrs. Fred Alphin poured punch. Supplemental refreshments were toasted almonds, cheeses wafers and bridal mints.

During the evening, the bridal couple-elect presented gifts to their attendants. The bride-elect, her mother, Mrs. Alphin, and Mrs. Smith, mother of the bridegroom-elect received corsages for the party.

Guests wear members of the bridal party and out-of-town friends in town for the wedding.

BRIDESMAIDS' LUNCHEON

Mrs. Thurman Davis of Mount Olive, and Mrs. Revis Alphin of Richmond, Virginia, entertained Miss Linda Alphin and her bridesmaids-elect at a luncheon preceding the Smith - Alphin wedding Saturday.

The affair was given at Mrs. Davis' home amidst decorations of pink asters, carnations and chrysanthemums. The table centerpiece was arranged to suggest a double wedding-ring design lighted by pink candles. Nougats of pink flowers added a festive note.

The luncheon menu was tomato juice cocktail, chicken salad of lettuce, potato chips, hors d'oeuvres, hot rolls, iced tea and strawberry shortcake with ice cream.
