New Instant Flat-Tire Fixer Available in Push-Button Can

Have you ever been driving along, dressed smartly in your best clothes, and suddenly have a flat tire? This sort of thing has probably happened to everyone at one time or another. Chances are you got all dirty changing the tire.

Well, those days are gone forever, because a new flat-tire infuser, which temporarily repairs punctures in minutes, is now available to the public from the Melanic Chemical Corp. of Westbury, L. I., N. Y. The product, Tire Fix, is offered in handy aerosol form, and can be carried, until needed, safely and indefinitely in the spare-tire compartment of any automobile. Then when flat-tire trouble does come, Tire Fix instantly inflates and seals your tire with 20 to 25 pounds of pressure.

The best thing about Tire Fix is that it is easy to use. Anyone can fix a flat, simply by following the directions on the can. It is safe and requires no tools or jacks.

All that is needed is to attach the screw end of the rubber hose (right) to the air-intake valve of the flat tire, and attach the other end of the hose to the aerosol can of Tire Fix. Turn can upside down and depress nozzle valve of the can. That's all there is to it. The flat tire will inflate and be temporarily mended, allowing you an opportunity to drive to a garage and have the tire permanently repaired. Tire-Fix carries a suggested retail price of $1.49 per aerosol can. You can buy it at most department stores, discount stores and auto accessory shops.

Snake Bites Boy

Randy Kennedy, 13, a ninth grade student at the Beulaville High School and a son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Kennedy, of Pink Hill, Route 2 was bitten by a snake at his home Friday afternoon. The boy had gone to a pasture to get his pony, and was riding him back when the pony suddenly became frightened after having seen, or smelled the reptile, and reared up on his hind legs. Randy fell upon the snake and he was bitten near his knee. No one ever saw the snake but two Drs. declared it was a snake bite, but said it was not one of the most poisonous kind. He was treated at Lenoir Memorial Hospital, in Kinston, and allowed to return home.
