

ERVIN SAYS

WASHINGTON — Congress, which convened this year on January 11, is expected to conclude its work either this week or early next week. Conference bills on Trade, Drug Controls, Tax Revision, and Self-employed Retirement Tax Deductions are likely to be passed by Congress in the final days of the session. A Postal Revision-Employees Pay Bill may be approved by both Houses prior to adjournment.

Congressional approval of most legislative measures this session centered on whether or not the bill reflected a moderate approach. This is reflected particularly in the Tax Revision Bill, and the Communications Satellite bill, which generated a filibuster by reason of its moderate approach. Even the watered-down Farm bill approved by Congress after a third try, reflects a moderate approach to legislation.

Earlier this session the Senate passed the Medical Care for the Aged bill, and the House approved the Urban Affairs Plan. It appears unlikely that this Congress will enact the Mass Transit, Youth Employment, or Federal Aid to Education bills. Congress has cleared registration governing public works, Communications Satellites, and Welfare Program Revision, Corporate, Excise, and Travel taxes, and Sugar Controls were extended earlier during the session. A Reserve Callup Resolution granting the President statutory authority until February 28, 1963 to call to active duty 150,000 members of the Armed Forces Ready Reserves went quick approval.

I think Congress has approved a constructive legislative program and that its moderate approach reflects the sentiments of the people.

GORE AMENDMENT — I am glad to say that the Gore Amendment to H. R. 10, which would apply a special tax rule to lump sum payments of employee pension plans has been deleted by the Senate-House Conference Committee. It was retroactive legislation, and it was not just when compared with other laws governing pension funds.

FARM LEGISLATION — The Senate has been passing farm legislation most of this session. The bill approved by Congress has some good provisions in it. Senator Gore compels me to say that there are many things in the bill which I do not favor. In essence, Congress had to pass a bill, because the alternative of no action was worse. If no bill had been passed, the permanent law granting high price supports with virtually no controls on wheat and feed grains would have operated again.

For some years we have had wheat and feed grains running out of our ears. We have had a system with virtually no controls on feed grains, but with high price supports. I have the conviction that if we are going to have price supports, it is just as essential that we have controls that are effective on wheat and feed grains. Cotton, tobacco, and peanut programs have effective controls along with price supports. These programs have worked well. The current farm bill illustrates once more than in Congress major legislation it is seen that measure is all good or all bad. The farm alternatives are plain, but as yet Congress has not given a clear cut answer.

School Lunch Program Expansion For North Carolina Passed By Senate

By Sen. B. Everett Jordan
WASHINGTON — The Senate has just passed legislation which will help us to greatly expand our school lunch program in North Carolina.

Under the proposal, the National school lunch program allocation formula would be changed in such a way that the schools in North Carolina would receive about $3.5 million a year instead of the $2.5 million they are now receiving.

The bill that would accomplish this has been pending in the Congress for some time. As Chairman of the Senate Subcommittee on Agricultural Research and General Legislation, I presided over hearings on the bill and acted as its manager in the Senate.

In past years, the States have received grants from the Federal Government for school lunch programs on the basis of total school-age population and per capita income of the State. This formula has worked very well in the past, but it has become outdated. Under the new formula, the funds will be distributed on the basis of the number of lunches served in the past combined with a need factor based on the per capita income of the State. In both categories of this formula, North Carolina will receive larger-than-average grants.

In fact, under the new formula, only one state, New York, will receive more total funds per year than North Carolina.

One of the main reasons North Carolina will benefit from the new formula is the fact that we have always had a very active and widespread school lunch program. Over the years, local school boards have made unusually good arrangements and provided for good facilities to serve children hot lunches in the school buildings. Last year, for example, we had nearly 1,000 schools in North Carolina taking part in the program and about 100 million hot lunches were served in the schools. This is a very good record and it is an outstanding example for the other States.

The school lunch program is administered by the U. S. Department of Agriculture. The Department makes direct cash grants to the States to purchase food for well-balanced diets, and it also makes available from time to time surplus foods that are channeled into the program.

There is no doubt that the school lunch program is one of the most commendable of all the programs administered by the Department of Agriculture and I am sure that the new fund allocation formula will mean that we in North Carolina can provide lunches for more children at lower prices to them in the years ahead.

Disabled Veterans To Receive Increase In Compensation

On or about October 31 some two million disabled veterans will start receiving checks for increased compensation amounting to $98 million yearly, J. D. DeRamus, Manager of the Veterans Administration Regional office, said today.

Under terms of the new law signed by the President September 7, provision is made in the October payment for a special increase which amounts to a three months retroactive sum. This applies to the October checks only.

Mr. DeRamus stressed there is no need for veterans to contact the VA. The compensation checks are processed automatically with electronic data processing equipment so that the checks received by veterans with service-connected disabilities about October 31 will contain the first of the increases.

Designed to reflect changes in the cost of living since 1957, when the last compensation increase for veterans disabled in service went into effect, the average payment will be 9.4 percent more than the current rate.

Compensation for peacetime service-connected disabilities is paid at approximately 80 percent of that for wartime service-connected disabilities, Mr. DeRamus pointed out.

The increases are on a sliding scale so that the more seriously injured veterans are to receive the higher benefits. The increase for a veteran who is 10 percent disabled goes from $19 to 20 a month and the payment for a veteran who is 100 percent disabled goes from $225 a month to $260.

In addition to payments based upon percentage of disability, additional "statutory" payments are made for specified disabilities or combinations of disabilities such as blindness, deafness, and loss of limbs.

The maximum amount that may be received by a wartime veteran who has no dependents, and who is so seriously disabled that he requires aid and attendance, has been increased under the new law from $600 to $725 monthly.

Early Birds Get Reduced Rate First Day At Fair
The early bird . . . the State Fair Early Bird, that is, gets the bargain.

Special rates for early arrivals on opening day of the North Carolina State Fair were announced today by Agriculture Commissioner L. Y. Ballentine, acting manager of the Fair.

Ballentine stated that all vehicle loads of people which arrive at the fairgrounds prior to 12:00 noon on Monday, Oct. 15, will be admitted to the grounds as a group for only $1.00.

"No matter whether they come by car, bus, truck or tobacco sled," Ballentine explained, "the entire vehicle load pays only one dollar to get in the gates - But" he emphasized, "they must arrive at the gates before noon."

"A full program of activities will be available to the fairgoers on opening day, with a special program for the older folks. We know that most of the kids will be in school," Ballentine continued, "and we are making the morning program especially attractive to the adults with a Fun Festival designed for the older folk, the Golden Ages . . . the to a 100 percent disabled veteran is increased from $225 a month to $260.
