THE FIRST SKETCH PUBLISHED OF THE NEW LIBRARY—This artist sketch of the Davie County Library, made in the early stages of planning, proved to be an identical likeness to the beautiful building that was dedicated last Sunday. A large barn, full of hay was completely destroyed on Sunday, around noon, on the Henry Dobson Farm, near Ephesus. When the fire trucks arrived, the top of the barn was falling in on the hay stored in the barn. This was a hard fire for the firemen to handle. The only thing that could be done was to keep pouring water on the building and contents which took practically twelve loads of water. After several hours a bulldozer was called to the fire and the hay was spread out over a pasture and more water was poured on the hay to put out the blaze. The firemen worked faithfully until around 6 P. M. before all the danger was finally under control.

Mrs. Paul Taylor returned home from Davie Hospital on Monday.

With Spring finery appearing on the trees, another spring fire season is drawing to a close in Davie County, and the Davie County Forester's Office has reported twenty-two brush or forest fires during this season.

Mr. Paul J. Bonardi, Davie County Forester, considers this a low figure, compared to some other counties in the state, but Mr. Bonardi is quick to point out that it could have been much worse and that the county was most fortunate in having some of its potentially worst fires burning in areas where they could be, and were, rapidly suppressed.

The largest fire of the spring season destroyed twenty seven acres, much of it commercial forest. Others ranged from a tenth of an acre up. The saddest part of the story is that all but four of the total were caused by the same thing . . . people burning trash or debris. Mr. Bonardi considers it an old story of poorly chosen times and places to burn debris, by people not equipped to control their fire, and some under weather conditions almost sure to have created an uncontrolled blaze. Many of them did.

People caused all but two of the fires recorded in Davie County, so it follows that those same people could have prevented those fires and Davie County would only have had two fires with a total loss of less than two acres.

Mr. Bonardi also complimented the local news media for their excellent cooperation in publicizing the burning permit program and the North Carolina Burning Laws, which will remain in effect until June 1. He also mentioned the response of the county residents in cooperating with the Forest Service by securing permits or by waiting until after four o'clock in the afternoon to burn.

During the summer months the Forester's office will be establishing fire wardens in different areas of the county, who will also be agents for burning permits. Some of the Wardens already posted are Edward Beck, Liberty Church Road; Claude Beck of Jerusalem District; David Essex on the Lexington Highway; and J. C. Brigman in the Jerusalem District who is also the County Smoke Chaser. The Warden for the Farmington District is Wade Groce, also Chief of the Farmington Volunteer Fire Department. County residents should become familiar with the names and locations of the Wardens in their District and may secure that information by calling the Forester's office at 634-5319 or 634-5265.

Mr. Bonardi urges all Davie County residents to continue to be wary of unsafe fire conditions, and if in doubt, call his office before doing any burning. It is wise to remember that people cause most of the forest fires that destroy North Carolina timberland . . . and those same people can prevent those fires just as easily.
