Rev. Clyde W. Faulkner Is Rural Minister of Year

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.—Reverend Clyde W. Faulkner, Haynesville Methodist Charge, has been named Rural Minister of the Year for North Carolina by The Progressive Farmer magazine and Emory University, Atlanta, Ga.

The award was presented to Mr. Faulkner July 14 during the 22nd Town and Country School, Church and Community Workshop, conducted annually by the Candler School of Theology, Emory University.

Mr. Faulkner's charge includes Oak Forest, Ogden, Hickory Stand, and Sweetwater churches. He had been on this charge since 1961, and the Sweetwater church was started under his leadership. Each of the other churches has been renovated or remodeled since he has been there.

One parishioner said, "He not only does the work of a minister, but labors with his hands to help others." He personally helped in the church renovation programs, and is known throughout the area for the help he has given friends and neighbors in planting, cultivating, and harvesting crops when emergencies arise. Mr. Faulkner grew up on a farm in Vance County, N. C. This early acquaintanceship with farming has been quite beneficial to him and to his rural parishioners.

He serves as a substitute teacher in the local high school when he is needed. In 1965 he went to Puerto Rico on a church building mission.

Mr. Faulkner's first church was on Hatteras Island where his work with fishermen gave him the apt title, "Fisherman of Men." His ability to be a friend to the people he serves as well as their minister has well qualified him as North Carolina's Rural Minister of the Year.

Mrs. J. G. Crawford spent a week with her daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. Giles Myers in Greenville, S. C. On Thursday, Mr. Crawford and Mariola went down to bring her home. Mrs. Myers and son, Johnny accompanied them home to spend a week.

Davie Library Wins Honor

A scrapbook covering all publicity concerning the Davie County Public Library during the Fund Raising Campaign and building of the library has received the John Cotton Dana Publicity Award. Mrs. I. H. Huske prepared the scrapbook for entry in a contest sponsored by the Public Relations Section of the Mexican Library Association and the H. W. Wilson Bulletin.

The citation read: Special Award for an ambitious campaign making the new library building a county-wide enterprise. The spirit and purpose of the campaign involved all of the people.

Award winners, selected from libraries serving a population up to 25,000, were in Borger, Texas; Mocksville, N. C.; and Longview, Washington.

"Our library was the only winner of an award in Southeastern United States," said Mrs. Huske, "and all of Davie County deserves the honors since its activities made the publicity possible."

Davie County's scrapbook covered publicity used in printed and pictorial form, ending with the Dedication of the new library building. Much of the material was from the two county papers, as well as those of adjoining counties and several other state publications. Co-operation of the local radio station was also acknowledged.

The Dana awards are presented to libraries submitting scrapbooks showing outstanding publicity and judges are connected with libraries in various parts of the United States.

The awards were presented at the H. W. Wilson Company Tea in the Terrace Room of The Plaza in New York. July 11. Miss Phyllis Snyder, Library Consultant at the N. C. State Library accepted the award for the Davie County Public Library.

A duplicate of the Scrapbook was made and is on display at the Library if anyone desires to see it.

Dr. Young On Veterinary Board

Dr. R. A. Glass of Jacksonville was installed as President of the North Carolina Veterinary Medical Research Foundation, Inc. at a recent annual meeting in Asheville. Dr. Glass succeeds Dr. C. W. Barber of Raleigh as President. Members of the Board of Directors of the Foundation are: Dr. Martin Litwack of Raleigh, Vice-President; Dr. C. J. Lange of Greensboro, Treasurer; Drs. C. N. Copeland of Hickory, C. W. Young of Mocksville, M. J. Holse of Greenville, T. C. Needham of Wilmington and D. M. Kalet of Winston-Salem. Dr. C. C. McLean of Southern Pines was elected Executive Director of the Foundation.

The Foundation was organized by the North Carolina Veterinary Medical Association in 1958 to promote educational and scientific research in the field of Veterinary Medicine, and to build and support a Veterinary Research Center. The Research tract of land donated to the Foundation by Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Moss of Mile-Away Farms, Southern Pines. The founders of the Foundation believe that a Medical Research Center will be able to find methods for preventing and curing many Horse, Dog and Cat diseases. The center will do much to alleviate suffering, study breathing, and integrate investigations in the fields of human and medicine and general science. The Center will reduce the losses in life, health and usefulness of our champion animals.

Sportsmen, Breeders and Fanciers all across the country will applaud North Carolina for this progressive step forward.

WHO ARE THESE COOLEEMEE PEOPLE?

Clues: Several of them are now members of the Senior Citizens Club and among them are several brothers and their wives.

Library News

Worlds are between the covers of a book! Let's discover them!

1. THE QUEST — Allen A report on extra terrestrial life. The author offers a hard look at what man may meet in space — a creature we can only describe as The Allen.

2. PASSPORT TO ADVENTURE — Scott Quentin Reynolds called this author "the Richard Halliburton of the jet age" and Lowell Thomas labels the book "one of the most fascinating travel books I have ever read". Latch on to the Scott's magic carpet.

3. THE MULE ON THE MINARET — Waugh Absorbing fiction, colorful, sensitive and informed. A novel about the Middle East.

4. A WELSH STORY — Varney An autobiographical story of rare, warm humor and nostalgic charm of a girl who grew to womanhood in a mining town in Wales.

5. MALAYSIA — Purcell Purcell's unrivaled knowledge of Southeast Asia brings to this study of Malaysia a keen appreciation of the subtle influence of culture, religion and social organization on the pattern of contemporary life. Timely, since the "confrontation" between Malaysia and Indonesia is a major factor in world affairs.

Mr. and Mrs. Junior Messick and children spent last week at Carolina Beach.

Chambley Accepts Job As Overseer of Mill Carding

Social Security Office To Remain Open

The Salisbury social security office will remain open to the public until 9 p. m. each Friday night until further notice, according to an announcement by Robert C. Thomas, district manager.

The extended hours are offered for the convenience of those people who work until 5 p. m. and who would otherwise have to lose time from their jobs in order to take care of social security matters.

To provide this extra service to the community with no increase in the district office staff, it will be necessary that only part of the staff be on duty on Friday mornings and from 5 to 9 p. m. Friday nights. For this reason, people who can conveniently do so are encouraged to visit the office during regular hours, 8:45 to 5 p. m., Monday through Thursday, or during Friday afternoons. The full staff on duty at these times will be able to provide faster service to visitors.

The social security office is located at 105 Corriher Ave.

Raymond Pierce is rebuilding his home on Midway Street which was destroyed by fire some months ago.

Mr. Bill Chambley, his wife, Agnes, and their two boys, James and John, recently moved to Cooleeemee from Lenior, N. C. Mr. Chambley has accepted employment as the Overseer of Carding at the local Burlington Industries Plant. They have moved into their home at No. 4 Marginal Street.

Mr. Chambley, formerly with Hayes Manufacturing Company at Lenior, N. C., has had considerable experience in the textile field. He is originally from Columbus, Ga., having completed high school and military preparatory school in that city. He is a past president and charter member of the Fieldale Lions Club, a master mason, with numerous years of work in the Boy Scouts of America.
