

Burlington Industries Reviews Record 1966 Physical Year

Greensboro, N. C. -- Burlington Industries, Inc., completed a fifth consecutive year of record sales and earnings during 1966, with sales reaching an all-time high of $1.37 billion, up 4.4 per cent over 1965, and net earnings up 12.4 per cent to $77 million.

Charles F. Myers, Jr., Burlington president, states in the company's annual report now going to more than 32,000 shareholders, that the year also brought record capital spending of $159 million to expand and modernize production facilities.

The chief executive of the leading textile firm noted that "at the present time many of our markets are adversely affected by the uncertain outlook for the 1967 economy," but added that "the American consumer will continue to spend a steady percentage of rising personal income for apparel and home furnishings--areas that represent about 95 per cent of Burlington's sales."

Growing textile imports, Mr. Myers pointed out, continue to be a problem for the industry.

"We believe that the desire of our country to assist underdeveloped and low-wage nations through trade must be weighed carefully against other considerations," he said. "For example, the textile and apparel industries together employ 2.3 million people--about 12 per cent of the total U. S. manufacturing employment of these and other American workers must be considered."

"We strongly believe," Mr. Myers said, "that new initiative must be provided by our government to achieve more equitable world trade in textiles and textile products."

Burlington operates 125 plants in 15 states, eight foreign countries and employs some 69,000 persons. It completed six new manufacturing plants during 1966 and in early 1967 will occupy a new research center near its headquarters in Greensboro.

'Fashion Riddle' Is Theme Of Burlington Industries Spring Style Show For Nation's Press

New York, N. Y. January 4, 1967 -- More than 200 newspaper fashion editors from throughout the nation were guests of Burlington Industries here today at a special showing of spring ready-to-wear fashions in Burlington fabrics, held at New York's Plaza Hotel.

The show, with Ed McMahon of NBC-TV's "Tonight Show," as guest commentator, was keyed to the age-old fashion riddle: "do women dress for men, themselves or other women?"

The solution, say Burlington fashion experts, is as clear as the mystery of woman. varied as her personality and varied as her modern life, such as for status, for chic, for understatement, for fun, for herself and for men. And, fortunately, thanks to the textile and apparel industries of today, she has the clothes to match her every need, whim or fancy.

The Burlington show featured clothing for women, men and children, from couture creations by name designers to smart popular-price designs by the largest ready-to-wear houses.

Burlington divisions participating in the Fashion Riddle included Atwater Throwing Co., The Adler Co., Burlington Greige Sales Co., Burlington - Balfour Mills, Burlington Throwing Co., Burlington Knit Fabrics Co., Klopman Mills, Erwin Mills, Galey and Lord, Mooresville Mills, Burlington Men's Wear, Cleveland Woollens, Pacific Adv. Robert Summers Showboat Actor An Athlete

If handsome Showboat actor Robert Summers looks more like an athlete than an actor, there's a reason.

Bob loves the outdoors and excels in horseback riding, swimming, football, baseball, track, tennis, waterskiing, boating, canoeing, badminton, camping, fishing, hunting, hiking, bicycling and scooting around in sport cars.

When he was signed by the American Scene Dinner Theatres Inc. for its production of "Any Wednesday" for the Showboat Dinner Theatre near Friendship Airport, he had visions of spending his days cavorting in sportsmanlike manner in the sunny South.

Skies haven't been all-sunny since he arrived to appear as Cass Henderson opposite Carol McKinley, but he has managed.

With his pretty wife of two years, Linda, he has been horseback riding several times with another member of the "Any Wednesday" cast, Dana Hardwick, he has spent active hours on the tennis court.

Bob fought the urge to be a professional actor until 1960, then decided he never would be happy until he gave it a try. He had a taste of acting in 1956 with the Youngstown Playhouse in Ohio and had never lost it.

So, after college he spent three years at the Boston University Graduate School of Theatre, then heading for the big town.

He acted with the Brooklyn Academy of Music and the American Theater Company in Princeton in 1964. From the Charles Studio Group in Boston, he moved to the famous Provincetown Playhouse, appearing in many leading roles.

The following year, he appeared at the North Shore Music Tent in Beverly, Mass., the McCarter Theatre Repertory Company in Princeton and the Great Lakes Shakespeare Festival in Cleveland.

Unlike many young actors in the theatre, Summers is not dead set on becoming a "star." One has to sacrifice too many personal things in order to do that, he feels.

Summers' future, he hopes, will be in the blossoming field of regional theatre. "It is the coming thing," he said. "It will grow. And it is a gracious way of working as an actor. That is where true satisfaction in my career will lie."

Meanwhile, he is giving true satisfaction to audiences for "Any Wednesday," to continue at the Showboat Dinner Theatre through January 15. Critics have praised him and audiences are applauding their approval of his acting in the play which Time magazine calls "One of the funniest, most delightful comedies in decades."

A Record 2,532,000 Registrations Mailed By Motor Vehicle Dept.

RALEIGH -- The largest bulk mailing in the history of the North Carolina Department of Motor Vehicles took place Wednesday, December 21, when 2 million 532 thousand registration renewal cards for '67 were turned over to the Raleigh Post Office.

A miniature mountain of mail bags weighing more than 80-thousand pounds was loaded onto mail trucks for delivery to every registered motor vehicle owner in North Carolina. The registration cards must be presented when the owner purchases his '67 license tags.

The postage bill for the huge mailing will total 73-thousand dollars, says W. D. Cox, Director of Supply and Service for the Motor Vehicles Department. A special bulk mailing rate results in the saving of 20 - thousand dollars under the regular four-cents per letter rate. The registration renewal cards are sorted and bagged according to the city or town to which they are addressed.

Addressograph machines in the basement of the Motor Vehicles Building printed the more than 2 and one-half million cards. Miss Foy Ingram's Registration Division supervised preparation of the cards which are mailed a few days before the beginning of the new year. 1967 license tags go on sale the first working day after January 1.

Another new record in vehicle registration will be set for 1966, says Miss Ingram. By December 31, the final figures are expected to total about 2 million, 600-thousand. Registration in '65 totaled 2 million, 409-thousand.

Cox says the registration card mailing is timed each year not to interfere with the Postoffice Christmas rush. By December 21, the Postoffice has passed the peak of its Christmas mail handling, he said.

Although the more than 2 and one-half million registration cards comprise the largest single mailing by the Motor Vehicles Department, Cox's Supply and Service Division handles an additional 2 million, 600-thousand pieces of mail yearly. The Department's annual postage bill totals approximately 425 thousand dollars.

Cox reports that the mail sent out from the Motor Vehicles Department accounts for more than seven percent of the Raleigh Postoffice's annual revenue.
