Lions District Governor To Be Here For Presentation Of Citizen Award

Mr. Earl Parker, District Governor for the Coolee Lion's Club, will be present at a special presentation banquet to be held at the Coolee Elementary School cafeteria on June 12. The purpose of Mr. Parker's visit is to present to the Coolee Community's outstanding citizen an award for contributions made toward making the community a more enjoyable, healthy, and fulfilling place to live.

Any person in the community may nominate his candidate for this Award at any time between now and May 27. The nominations will be closed as of that date in order to allow a committee from outside the area to make a final selection for this honor. Nominations may be made by filling out a nomination blank, which may be obtained from any Lion's Club member. The completed blank may be returned to any club member.

This year marks the first time that this special award of recognition has been given. Hopefully, this presentation will become an annual affair.

The purpose of the Award is to give recognition to some person who has already made one or more outstanding contributions to the community, so that others will be encouraged to continue their efforts to make this community even better.

Out of all the nominations made for this Award only one will be selected. The person finally selected will be given the honor by the Lion's District Governor at the special banquet scheduled for June 12.

Davie County Ministerial Ass'n New Officers

On May 9 the new officers of the Davie County Ministerial Association were installed. They are the following: President, Rev. Ivan W. Ijames; Vice-President and Program Chairman, Rev. Glenn Thomason; Secretary-Treasurer, Rev. James Ratchford; Radio Chairman, Rev. Taylor Loffin; Chaplaincy Chairman, Rev. Bennie Bearden.

At the May meeting Mr. Ham Hudson, The Davie County Hospital Administrator, gave a very helpful presentation concerning the hospital's total ministry to patients, emphasizing the minister's part. He emphasized also the team ministry nature of medical care.

Officers for the past year have been the following: President, Rev. Jack Rhyne; Vice-President and Program Chairman, Rev. Ralph Eanes; Sect. Treas., Rev. Glenn Thomason; Radio Chairman, Rev. Claude Hartsell; Chaplaincy Chm., Rev. James Ratchford.

The past year has shown an average attendance of fourteen ministers at meetings. Many of the ministers in the county have to work at other jobs and find it difficult to attend.

The Ministerial Association provides an opportunity for ministers of various denominations to share common concerns. It provides for a weekly radio ministry and hospital chaplaincy program, both of which are voluntary. The association has supported many local programs, including the blood program, the poverty program, the soil conservation and development program, evangelistic programs and efforts towards racial understanding and cooperation.

The vast majority of the ministers in the county have demonstrated by active participation their belief in the importance of this ministry. Ministers can assist one another as they discuss ministerial ethics, their views of themselves and their congregations' expectations.

Davie Voters Reject All 4 Proposals

MOCKSVILLE — Davie County voters turned down Saturday, by wide margins, four separate proposals for bond issues and tax increases for school construction, teacher salary supplements, construction of a new jail and library operating funds.

The vote was at least 2-1 against each proposal with 11 of the county's 12 voting precincts reporting.

Davie became the third county in this area to turn down school improvement and teacher salary supplement proposals this spring. Voters in Forsyth and Stokes counties defeated such proposals several weeks ago.

The Davie vote against a $3-million bond issue for building three new elementary schools was 2,529 to 1,070.

The vote against a tax increase of 11 cents per $100 of assessed valuation to provide a $200 annual supplement for teachers was 2,537 to 1,020.

The library proposal lost by better than 3-to-1, and the vote against bonds for a new jail was almost 4-to-1.

The jail proposal was to issue $175,000 in bonds to build a new jail to replace the existing one, which the state says is substandard. The vote against it was 2,747 to 760.

The fourth proposal was to authorize a tax increase of up to 10 cents per $100 of assessed valuation. See VOTERS Page 4.

The Coolee Plant of Burlington Industries' Erwin Mills division was host to more than 50 community leaders from Coolee, Mocksville and Salisbury Thursday.

O'Neal Walker, plant manager, presided over a dinner meeting following tours of the local plant, and introduced for remarks J. C. Cowan, Jr., of Greensboro, vice chairman of Burlington's board of directors; and Marchant Cottingham of Durham, division executive vice president.

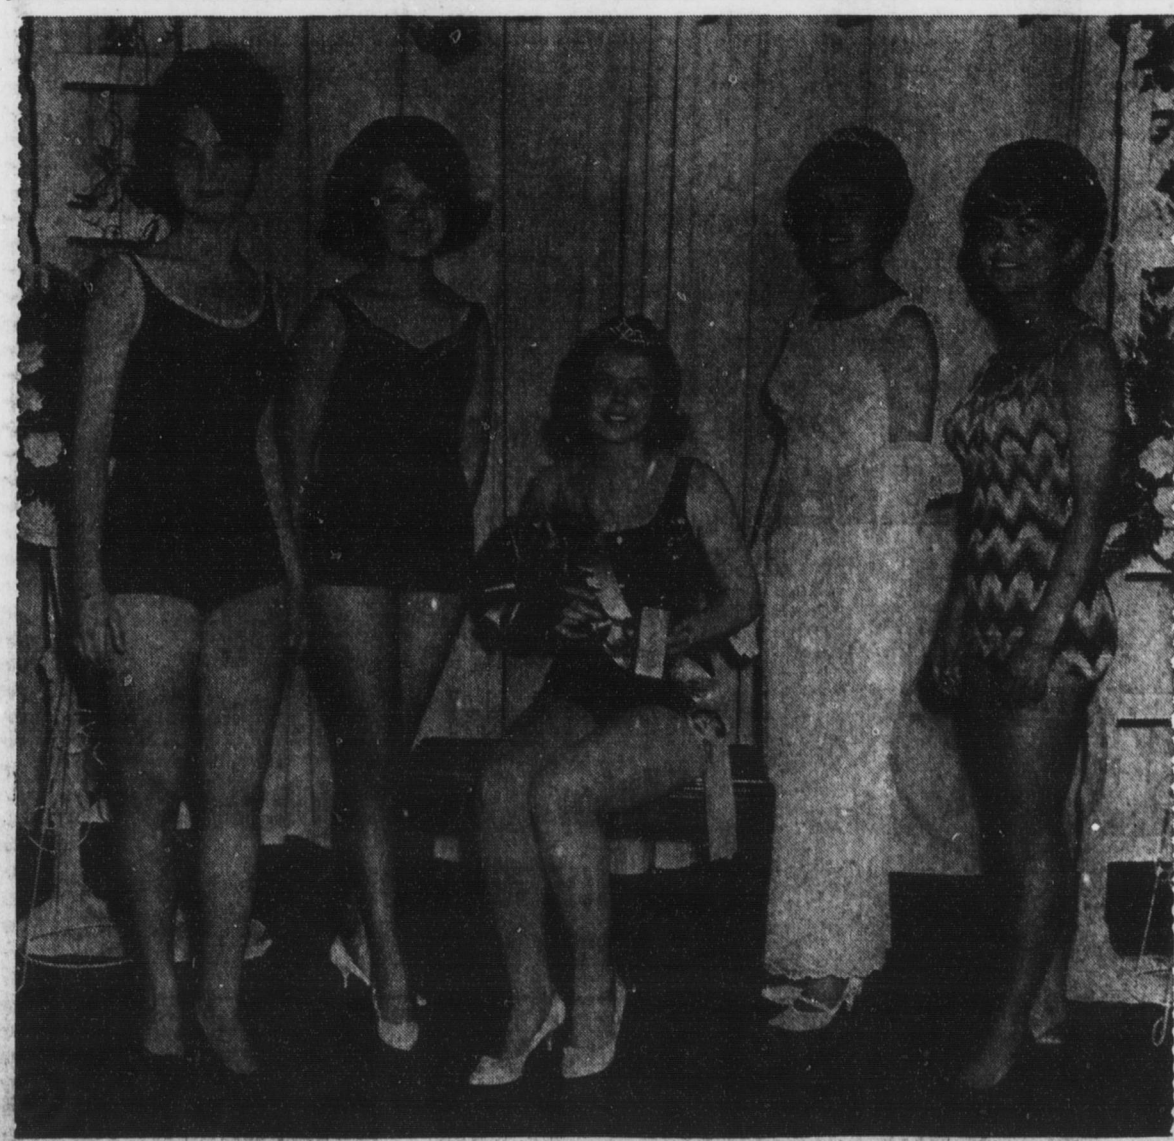

The program also featured the Company's annual report film which described the 1966 operation of Burlington, the world's leading textile firm.

In his remarks, Mr. Cowan stated that Burlington continues to build "with considerable faith in North Carolina." He noted that during the past year Burlington has completed seven new manufacturing plants — six of which are located in North Carolina. The Company operates 74 plants in the state. The company recently completed a corporate research center at Greensboro. This facility will be dedicated by Governor Moore on May 19.

Mr. Walker, who transferred to the Coolee post recently from Stonewall, Mississippi, pointed that the Coolee plant is one of the oldest textile operations in this region, but nevertheless is one of the most modern in equipment and in working conditions. He praised local community leaders for their support and continued interest in the local operation.

He and Mr. Cottingham outlined continuing modernization and expansion of the local plant, which now employs more than 1,200 persons. It produces a wide range of fabric for the apparel market. The Company recently completed a $750,000 waste treatment plant at Coolee which serves local residences as well as the plant.

Raymond House and son, Marty, visited his mother, Mrs. Mary House at Fran-Ray Rest Home in Mocksville on Saturday.
