recreation facilities to the town if it does become incorporated. This will also include the caretakers house behind the center.

If the town does not incorporate, there will be no one to give these facilities to and they will have to stand idle.

Burlington also told the committee that after six months, the other services which they have provided over the years will be re-evaluated. The size of the new operation will NOT permit the company to continue these services in the future. Burlington spokesmen also told the group that they would like to see another industry locate here and they would gladly negotiate with them on their available land. They also said they would guarantee to make available water and sewage for such an industry by selling it to the town, if it becomes incorporated, for resale.

The spokesman pointed out that they would be willing to do as much for Coolee as they have done for Erwin and Cramerton in the past. They prepaid a years taxes to get the town of Erwin going after they became incorporated, and said that they would do as much for Coolee. He also said that we were in a much better situation here than the town of Erwin, which did not have a recreation program. They will also give the town the water distribution system.

Applications will soon be taken for this new operation but no hiring will be done until August or September, with the exception of a few maintenance men to get things going.
