Library News

EXPAND YOUR MIND, BUT NOT WITH HARMFUL DRUGS!

Your public library has reading material and films to keep you up to date on the drug question — but offers so much more!

The slogan for National Library Week, 1970, really said it: READING IS FOR EVERYBODY. Today, more than ever before, we NEED to read in order to be informed and keep up to date.

There is no town so small that it does not have citizens who are anxious to be better informed on some topic of national concern — be it the drug scene, our deteriorating environment or the world's hot spots. By the same token, there is no man, woman or child who isn't interested in something — people, places, events, a craft or trade, a hobby or a business. It is not news to us, in the library, that there is some book or books that will interest each of them.

We are all swamped with words — spoken and written — through every kind of media. Yet, chiefly in books can we find the reasoned and in-depth presentations of facts and ideas upon which we can base intelligent and considered ideas and actions.

The public is cordially invited.

If you have the library habit, already, WELCOME.

If you have not developed it, so far, please think on these things, try your public library, and A SPECIAL WELCOME TO YOU.
