58 Pre-Schoolers In Davie Classes

When the school bell rang on September 14, 1970, fifty-eight pre-schoolers were among those answering roll call in Cooleemee and Mocksville. These bright-eyed scholars are enrolled in the Head Start program in the county, twenty-two at Cooleemee and thirty-six at Mocksville.

Although these classes meet in the public school buildings, they are not part of the county school system but are supported by federal funds and are under the auspices of the Office of Economic Opportunity (OEO), the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, and the Office of Child Development.

Prior to last year, the Head Start program operated during the summer only with a six to eight week program for low income children who were entering the first grade in the fall.

It has now become an eight month program with a full day schedule from mid-September to the middle of May. It is designed for three to five year olds of economically deprived families and strives to enrich the lives of both children and parents.

In the classroom the students are guided in cultural and creative activities (music, art, science, and social arts) and grow physically, intellectually, socially, and emotionally. These experiences prepare them for entrance to the first grade.

The parents also benefit from the program. In addition to knowing that their children are learning to meet and compete with others, the parents learn to understand and help their children through volunteer work in the program.

They also receive help and information concerning the many other resources which are available to them. Through regular monthly meetings the parents keep abreast of the progress of the program.

To aid in the physical development of the students, medical and dental services are provided. During the school term 1969-70, fifty-four children were screened for dental care (teeth cleaned and treated with fluoride) and thirty-six were given further dental treatment. All the children were screened by medical doctors; many benefits resulted, as follows.

Eleven children were treated for iron deficiency.

One child had an operation at Davie County Hospital.

One child was treated at the Baptist Hospital in Winston-Salem.

One child received treatment at the Orthopedic Clinic at the Rowan County Health Department.

Perhaps the most important value of Head Start is that the child learns that someone cares for him; he learns to believe in himself — a good beginning for building a better life and a better community.

Teachers in the Mocksville Center are the following: Mrs. Louise Clement and Mrs. Alice Gaither. Assistant teachers are Mrs. Lucille Clement and Mrs. Betty Whitaker. At Cooleemee, Ernestine Grant is the teacher and Jeanette Helper is her assistant.
