Mrs. W. H. Dail and daughter, Miss Bess Dail, and Mrs. Josiah Exum, of Snow Hill, were guests of Mrs. G. A. Reuse Thursday.

Mr. J. W. Perkins, of Wendell, spent a few days in Farmville this week attending the Convention at the Christian church.

The Farmville market continues to pay the highest prices of any market in the east for the farmers tobacco. Bring your tobacco to Farmville, where satisfying prices await you.

Mr. T. W. Rouse, formerly of the firm of Renfrew & Rouse, job printers of Greenville, but who recently sold his interest in the business at that place, spent Monday night in Farmville with his brother, Editor G. A. Rouse. He left Tuesday morning for Nashville, to spend a few days with his mother. Mr. Rouse expects to make Washington City his future home and will locate here in the near future.

The "Trail of the Lonesome Pine" is to be presented to the theatre goers of Farmville Saturday night, of this week, Nov. 6. Fuller announcement is made elsewhere in this issue.

Elsewhere in this issue will be seen a big display advertisement of the ten-county Fair to be held in Kinston beginning next Tuesday, November 9th. The fair association has been fortunate in securing as one of the prominent speakers for the opening day, Hon. William Jennings Bryan. Large crowds are expected to go from this section.

The Editor was remembered this week by Mr. E. A. Barrett, a progressive farmer who lives about two miles north of Farmville. He brought us four of the finest specimens of sweet potatoes ever raised in this section. There were four of these potatoes which weighed around 20 pounds. The largest of which weighed five and one-half pounds. The editor always appreciates anything from his farmer friends, and especially something eatable.

Mr. P. L. Carr, a successful farmer of near Farmville, was in town Monday and showed the editor one of the greatest curiosities in the shape of a tobacco leaf that he ever saw. This leaf was discovered in grading a lot of tobacco for market. The leaf is a combination of a natural tobacco leaf with an additional growth on the back side of a perfectly formed lily. Mr. Carr states that while the leaf was for market the lily represents a pocket or purse in which to carry your money.

We have just closed a contract with Dr. J. E. Patrick, now of Seven Springs, for a big quarter page advertisement next week in which he offers at auction soon, all his Farmville property. This is an opportunity to buy some nice homes or lots. We can attest to the fact that his two cottages are built for comfort and convenience in the home. If you want to buy a home in Farmville, it would be well to investigate these unusually good homes for the money. Look for the adv. next week.

Rev. C. B. Mashburn, who for the past several years has been serving as minister of the Christian church here, moved his family this week to Jarvisburg, N. C., where in the future they will reside.

In the going of Mr. Mashburn from our midst the Christian church of Farmville loses one of the best ministers it has ever had and no doubt his place will be hard to fill.

The members of his church and the town as a whole regret the leaving of Mr. Mashburn and family, but wish them all the success, happiness and prosperity possible in their new location.

BLOW FROM CLUB CRUSHES IN NEGRO'S SKULL

Owing to some dispute Roland Johnson, colored, of Farmville, Tuesday night struck Fred Barrett, colored, on the head with a club and crushed his skull in. It could not be learned what the row was about.

The Barrett negro is considered to be in a precarious condition. Johnson was taken to Greenville Wednesday morning by the chief of police of Farmville and placed in the county jail to a wait trial next week in the Recorder's court.

SMALL FIRE TUESDAY NIGHT.

The local fire company was called out for real duty Tuesday night for the first time since its organization some months ago.

The fire alarm was turned in about 11:45 by night policeman Moore, and upon investigation it was found that a lot of cotton—about 25 bales—on the platform of the East Carolina Railway on Belcher street was afire. The cotton was placed there during the day for shipment by Mr. W. C. Askew, for which he had already received a bill of lading, therefore the loss was sustained by the East Carolina Railway. The fire had been burning some time when discovered, but was soon extinguished by the local fire company, which responded promptly to the call.

It is the census of opinion the fire originated from the careless smoking by boys playing around the cotton platform in late afternoon.

THE COMING DAY

Eugene W. Hill's dramatization of "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine" is full of comedy touches in the love-making scene between Young Dave and June, and between June and Jack Hale, as well as that lent to the bright spirits of Berkley, Jack's chum, and the homely wit and philosophy of Uncle Billy Beau, the Justice of the Peace. The play opens at sunset on the trail and closes at sunrise. The Will E. Culhane Amusement Co., has made a wonderful production of this great play; those who have read the book will certainly want to see Miss Eily O'Connor as June and follow the feudists through the hills, hear their peculiar cries as they signal to each other, observe the meeting of Jack and June near the pool by the lonely pine, and see the closing picture of these two romantic lovers standing beneath the pines and looking out over into the valley as they are joined together as man and wife, by the old Justice of the Peace. It will be seen here at the Opera House Saturday night, Nov. 6th. Tickets on sale at Wheeler Drug Store.

HEALTH OFFICERS ADOPT SCHOOL INSPECTION.

Sampson, Nash and Pitt Co-operate with State Board of Health in School Inspection work.

The whole time health officers of Sampson, Nash and Pitt counties have adopted the plan of medical school inspection for their schools this year that the State Board of Health has recently developed. The health officers of these counties will cooperate with the Board in like manner as the school specialists of Alamance, Northampton and Edgecombe counties.

The Board will keep a record of school children whose examination showed some physical defect and, in order to see that the child receives treatment, will adopt the same follow-up method in Sampson, Nash and Pitt counties as in the other counties where the medical inspection campaigns will be conducted by the Board. The whole time health officers, however, will be able to give only two or three days in the week to this work while in the other counties the specialist will give his entire time.

With these counties adopting medical inspection for their schools it is expected that by the end of the school year that ten or more counties will have been given the benefits of this combined educational health work.
