TO THE LADIES OF FARMVILLE AND VICINITY.

Perhaps the work has already begun, if so, what I have to say will not be out of place.

To the thousands homeless, helpless women and children in flood-stricken North Carolina who are dependent on the benevolence of their more fortunate sisters, the many useless garments hanging in our closets or folded away in trunks and chests would be a God send. Suppose we devise some means of collecting and sending two or three large boxes between now and Thanksgiving. Farmville has contributed generously in cash but clothing is badly needed.

Mrs. Chas. McArthur.

Economists estimate that the life of each adult human being is worth $5,000 to the community. When it is realized that thousands of cases of tuberculosis, typhoid, diphtheria and scarlet fever are introduced yearly by the house fly, the slogan of "swat the fly" takes on a real economic significance. The actual dollar cost of fly-borne diseases each year would probably pay for the complete eradication of the pest.

Our Market Opened Tuesday and Prices are so much Higher Than any one on Earth Could Have Expected

WE are unable to tell you just how high it is, but we are glad to say that prices are much higher today than on the opening.

We have a light crop in pounds and for that reason we believe prices will continue good. Bottom Primings are averaging from 15 to 30c. and anything at all most will average 20c. or more.

Whatever you do, be careful how you price your Tobacco in Your Pack House. You will surely lose as a Rule.

If tobacco was low you would have to grade it and take what you could get, now that it is high, keep it and enjoy getting big prices.

There isn't one farmer in a thousand that knows how to price his Tobacco now, but most any Jack Leg tobacco man can buy it and make money.

One Other Good Piece of Advice and We Close.....

Watch the Warehouseman that is offering you great inducements to sell your tobacco. Some one has to pay for such things. The longer you patronize such men the more you encourage it.

Forget the Sympathy Warehousemen are pleading to you daily, and let each tub stand on its own bottom.

For a Good Sale and more money than you expect, come to see us with your Next Load.
