PRICES SOARING IN RUSSIA

Boots Cost $160 a Pair and Suit of Clothes $240

Paris.—Food prices in Petrograd and Moscow are the highest ever recorded there, according to letters received here by the father of two French women now in Russia. Boots cost $160 a pair and a man's suit $240. The clothing shoe crisis was said to be "terrible."

These French women said they were paying fifty cents for one egg, $1.70 for a pint of milk, $4 for a pound of meat, $10 a pound for butter, $1.50 a pound for potatoes and $2 a pound for fish. The Russian pound must be remembered is about one-fifth less than the American pound avoirdupois.

NOTICE OF SALE

By virtue of the power of sale contained in the decree of the Superior Court of Pitt County and that certain special proceedings entitled, J. R. Lewis and others vs. Blanche Lewis Brake and others dated the 8th day of October, 1918, the undersigned commissioner will on Saturday, the 9th day of November, 1918, at 11:30 o'clock A. M., in the town of Farmville, North Carolina, on the premises hereinafter described in said town, sell at public auction to the highest bidder for cash the following described real estate, lying and being in Farmville Township, Pitt County, State of North Carolina, described as follows, to-wit:

First Parcel: Lying and being in the town of Farmville, Pitt County, State of North Carolina, described as follows, to-wit:

Beginning at the Southeast corner of Corn Barrett's lot on Barrett Street and running thence South 41-1/2 West 63 yards with Barrett Street to Church Street; thence West with Church Street 82 feet; thence North 41-1/2 feet East 63 yards to Barrett's line; thence Easterly with Barrett's line to the beginning; being that same lot of land deeded to Mary E. Lewis by W. A. Lewis and wife on the 30th day of December, 1909, which deed is recorded in Book J. 9, page 99, in the Register of Deeds' office of Pitt County.

Second Parcel: Lying and being in Farmville Township, Pitt County, State of North Carolina, and joining the lands of J. R. Lewis on the West Little Contentnea Creek on the North, a public road on the East, and the Lewis Brothers' gin house property on the South, containing by estimation fifteen acres more or less.

Sale made for partition among the joint tenants. Terms of sale cash. This sale is to be conducted as above mentioned, on the lot now occupied by J. I. Morgan in the town of Farmville, North Carolina.

This 11th day of October, 1918, J. LOYD HORTON, Commissioner.

Mrs. J. M. Hobgood Dies of Influenza Pneumonia

The town and community was greatly shocked last Monday to learn of the death of Mrs. J. M. Hobgood, who had been sick for several days with influenza and who was getting better, when Sunday night pneumonia developed causing her death Monday morning at 9 o'clock. Everything possible was done by both physicians and nurses to stay the hand of death but of no avail.

Mrs. Hobgood was a daughter of Mr. B. E. Albritton of Greene county, was only 25 years of age, and a young woman loved and admired by all who knew her.

The funeral was conducted at the burial lot in Forest Hill cemetery Tuesday afternoon by her pastor, Rev. S. T. Moyle, of the Methodist church, assisted by Revs. W. P. Jordan and J. E. Kirk, and the remains placed beneath as beautiful and as huge a floral collection as ever covered a mound.

To the grief stricken husband and relatives is extended the sincere sympathy of a large number of friends throughout Eastern Carolina.

Husky Captain Takes Eight and An Empty Gun Gets The Rest

(By C. C. Lyon, N. E. A. Staff Correspondent, With the American in France)

This is a simple narrative of some of the thrilling exploits of a famous division in the St. Mihiel salient. In one place where the fighting was hard, American troops were led by three German-born Americans: Bob Barbach, of Columbus, O., born in Prussia; Captain Henry Graves, of Columbus, O., born in Bremen, and Lieutenant William J. Behorn, of Lancaster, O., born in Bavaria.

Graves is big and powerful, physically, and has a voice like a lion's call, and has a voice like a lion's call. He had led his company several kilometers across open spaces and through thickets, always moving stiffly and with a machine gun, and when he got them to one of the German reserve line trenches he was infuriated to find that the boche commanded the frontal approach, which was down a long narrow valley.

"Come out of there and surrender," Graves roared in German, as he could be heard above the noise of battle. The only reply to his challenge was another volley of machine gun bullets.

"Don't shoot boys," he called over bringing 'em over."

Pretty soon, out of the German trench appeared eight scared boches, all holding their hands high above their heads, while in the rear of them with a pistol in his hand came Graves. "Get the machine guns from a boche," Graves told his men. "Worked in behind their position and then crept up on them. I let out a yell and when they turned around from their machine guns to see what the trouble was I fired a couple of shots near as I could to them without hitting anybody. They were mighty glad to come across with their 'rammed' stuff."

Lieutenant Walter Christensen single-handedly charged a machine gun position, with only a couple of shots. "I didn't know until I was on top of the enemy that I didn't have a single cartridge in my gun," he said afterward.

Then, when some of the men came up, he stood in front of the prisoners and looked at them in a dazed fashion. "I don't know until I was on top of the enemy that I didn't have a single cartridge in my gun," he said afterward.

Private James Allison, of Ohio, got cut off from his companions and was looking around for them in a dazed fashion. "I don't know until I was on top of the enemy that I didn't have a single cartridge in my gun," he said afterward.

You Must Order Your Christmas Presents Early This Year—The Government Says So

Get the 71 Year Old Firm of Paul-Gale-Greenwood Serve You By Mail

Never in the history of the country has the mail order buyer been more fortunate than this year, since they know little of the trials the retailer is having in serving his patron on account of lack of help owing to war conditions. To them, buying has proven no hardship, and while there may be some little delay in the mails there will be none. Hence it is, that those who buy by mail should buy early, in order that every force possible may be released by those who serve them that those who buy in person may enjoy like privileges. At this old store we are ready, and we want to serve you, and can serve you as well as ever. If your name is not on our mailing list, drop us a postal that we may send you a Catalogue when ready.

MONK'S WAREHOUSE

Farmville, N. C., U. S. A.

On account of the continuous spread of the Spanish Influenza epidemic, which necessitated the closing down of the Farmville Tobacco Market 2 weeks ago, we are yet unable to inform you just when we will re-open.

We surely trust that this condition will be only temporary and that soon our sick friends will be restored to health.

Watch this space for the date of our re-opening.
