

Unreal Value.
In the loss of an object we do not proportion our grief to the real value it bears, but to the value our fancies set upon it.—Addison.

Your Own Opinion.
Public opinion is a weak tyrant compared with our own private opinion. What a man thinks of himself, that it is which determines, or rather indicates, his fate.—Henry D. Thoreau.

Fisherman's Luck.
A monster trout weighing ninety-three pounds was landed by a Belfast angler the other day. The fish, an ordinary brown trout, is the largest trout caught in Ulster within the memory of the oldest Waltonian by rod and line.

As Galsworthy Saw Life.
The wisdom of John Galsworthy: Like flies caught among the impalpable and smoky threads of cobwebs, so men struggle in the webs of their own natures, giving here a start, there a pitiful small jerking, long sustained, and falling into stillness.

Mankind Analyzed.
The man who lives quite up to the best standards of his age, of his people, of his neighbors, is not a bad man. The one who lives on a scale considerably above that of his age is a good man, no matter how much he may fall below the higher standard of an age more refined, enlightened and civilized.

Two Educations.
We all have two educations, one from others and another, and the most valuable, which we give ourselves. It is the last which fixes our grade in society, and eventually our actual condition in this life, and the color of our fate hereafter. All the professors and teachers in the world cannot make you a wise or good man without your own co-operation; and if such you are determined to be, the want of them will not prevail.—John Randolph.

The Wealth of Life.
There is no wealth but life—life, including all its powers of love, of joy, and of admiration. That country is the richest which nourishes the greatest number of noble and happy human beings; that man is richest who, having perfected the functions of his own life to the utmost, has also the widest helpful influence, both personal and by means of his possessions, over the lives of others.—John Ruskin.

Leonard --- One-Piece Porcelain Lined

There is no satisfaction in having a refrigerator that keeps your food just half-cool. It is expensive and aggravating to pay big money for ice bills and then fail to secure desired results. They are food savers, ice savers, money savers. The coldest refrigerators made—absolutely odorless and easily kept clean.

Our refrigerators are the most Perfect Distributors of cold air on the market. Through their patent and scientific construction every nook and corner is kept at the same low degree of temperature at the most trivial cost for ice. Call and see our line before you buy.

Here's the way we look at it
Just for a minute, look at the tire proposition from our standpoint.
We are in the tire business here, to stay. We can remain in business only so long as we please our customers.
Consequently, it pays us to handle good tires—United States Tires.
They're the tires we sell.
They're the tires you should use.
We have them to meet every need of price or use.
