KETTLE GETS 30 YEARS AT HARD LABOR.

The case of State vs. W. B. Kettle charged with the murder of his wife in Farmville on August 3rd and scheduled for trial in the superior court Thursday ended without a trial.

When the case was called Kettle, through his counsel, pleaded guilty of murder in the second degree. This plea was accepted on the part of the State with the proviso that Kettle be given the maximum punishment in the State prison which is 30 years. Judge Kerr later sentenced Kettle to serve a term of 30 years at hard labor in the State prison.
