COOLIDGE "CHOOSES"

President Coolidge's announcement last week not only surprised, but actually astounded the entire nation. The newspapers generally and politicians particularly are still discussing the reasons for his announcement. There are probably four main reasons why President Coolidge made this announcement: First: Coolidge had affixed his signature to an Anti-Third Term for President Roosevelt. Second: Physicians who have attended Presidents of the U. S. consider that the presidency is a man-killing job, and it is generally believed that no man can humanely endure three terms in succession. President Coolidge doubtless feels this himself. Third: President Coolidge is a poor man. It is not unreasonable nor unlikely that he would desire to accumulate a sufficient amount of wealth to enable him to live in ease and comfort in his later days. President Coolidge has made a profound impression upon the big business men of the country and big business corporations. It is commonly understood that a billion dollar corporation would tender the presidency of this corporation to Mr. Coolidge. The salary for such position would be around two-half million dollars a year. Fourth: President Coolidge possibly considers that if he does not run this time that the third term objection would not apply except to three consecutive terms and, hence, after a lapse of four years, he might be available for reelection to the presidency.

President Coolidge gave his message to the world in one sentence of twelve words. Doubtless he gave a great deal of thought to this phraseology and the word "choose" was not slipped in accidentally. He undoubtedly will not be a candidate. He does not "choose" to be a candidate. However, if his name is presented to the convention, as it undoubtedly will be unless the president absolutely forbids such action, the convention will "choose" to nominate him, and, President Coolidge in all probability, will accept the nomination.

If President Coolidge absolutely forbids his name being presented to the convention, the field is thrown open and the Republican Organization would probably select Charles Evans Hughes, Herbert Hoover, or Lowden - their standing with the organization and with the country generally as to their ability and political fitness in the order above named.

Bridge Luncheon

Mrs. J. G. Spencer was a charming hostess Thursday morning when she entertained the Progressive Bridge Club and a number of other friends at a delightful bridge luncheon.

Seven tables were arranged for the game in her apartment thrown on suits and tastefully decorated with asters, gladioli and marigolds. Mrs. A. S. Byrum was awarded the prize for high score.

Stuffed tomatoes, ham sandwiches, potato salad, beaten biscuit, fresh tea, orange ice and angel food cake were served by the hostess, assisted by her sister, Mrs. Thomas Ditty, of Wilson, and Mrs. W. Leslie Smith.

Two ladies returning from the opera took a sick look to the conductor. "I had been Chairman" one of them exclaimed.

SILVER WEDDING

Twenty-five years ago last Friday, August 5, a happy young couple stood before Rev. D. W. Arnold at the bride's home and assumed the sacred vows of holy wedlock. The bride was Miss Mamie Ella Lang, and the groom Bert S. Smith. They happily celebrated their silver wedding anniversary Friday evening.

Their attractive home on Contentnea street was lovely with asters and gladioli, white tapers and shaded lights adding to the effectiveness of the decorations.

At the front door were Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Askew, who greeted the guests and Misses Nita Lee Townsend and Bertha Lang who received the cards. The guests were invited into the west parlor by Mr. and Mrs. J. Y. Monk where punch was served by Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Lang assisted by Misses Janie Davis and Helen Sullivan, of Greenville. Dr. and Mrs. C. C. Joyner received at the living room door and introduced them to the receiving line, composed of Mr. and Mrs. B. S. Smith, Mr. Robert Lee Smith, Miss Louise Smith, Master B. S. Smith, Jr., Mrs. Ben May, of Sanford, Miss Agnes Moore, Mrs. F. M. Davis, Mrs. Mary Lewis Lang, Mrs. J. W. Parker, Mrs. C. R. Townsend and Mrs. McD. Horton, Rev. and Mrs. E. S. Tandy, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Easman and Mr. Wilton Lang received in the gift room and Dr. and Mrs. D. S. Morrill directed the way to the register presided over by Mr. J. O. Bailey, of Wilson, and Miss Mary Barrett. Misses Elizabeth Fields, Evelyn Horton, and Elizabeth Davis had charge of the music.

From the hall the guests passed to the dining room where they were greeted by Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Turange. The silver and white color scheme was beautifully carried out here. On one end of the artistically appointed table was a large silver basket of white tulle streamers, two silver pheasants marked the center and white candles in silver holders were at the other end. Mrs. Annie Lang and Mrs. Hattie White, of Greenville, seated at either end of the table served ice cream from silver platters. Misses Edna Foust Harris, Susan Barrett, Rosalie Lang, Allie Louise Fountain, Lula Lang Mewborn, of Kingston, Elizabeth Lang, May Joyner and Sullivan of Greenville, assisted in serving frosted cakes with silver star motifs, nuts and mints.

About two hundred friends and relatives shared with Mr. and Mrs. Smith the joy and brightness of the occasion.

Womans Missionary Society Met Tuesday

The Women's Missionary Society of the Missionary Baptist Church, met at the home of Mrs. Manly Liles on Tuesday afternoon.

The program was in charge of the Fannie Heck Circle, and the topic, "South America" was enjoyed by all. After a short business session delicious ice cream and cake was served by the hostess.

Children Like What's Good for Them

Only a physician or an experienced dietitian can appreciate how important it is for mothers to watch carefully what their children eat and drink. Many beverages which adults like with comparatively little harm are not at all permissible for growing children.
