1.—Do you know of any violations of the election laws in the primary or the campaign prior thereto?

2.—Have you any knowledge of any money spent on behalf of candidates in the primary, and if so, how much and how used.

3.—Do you know of any persons receiving money or other valuable considerations for services rendered candidates, and if so, who and how much?

4.—Do you know of any fraudulent use of the absentee ballot, and if so, give details.

5.—Do you know of any person or persons voting who were not qualified to vote?

6.—Do you know of any violations of the law by registrars by registering persons not entitled to register?

7.—Have you any information of persons receiving money for voting for any candidate?

8.—Do you know of any loans or contributions made for political purposes?

The Senator's inquiries pertained only to the Democratic primary of last June 7, and did not refer to the general election of November 4th.

CALL FINANCIERS IN BONUS BATTLE

Garner Sees Move As Dilatory Effort; Signs Of Compromise Increasing; "A Wound Stripe For The Big Purse" Suggested by Rep. Rankin of Miss.

Washington, Feb. 3.—Owen D. Young and a half dozen other industrialists were called last night to counsel the House ways and means committee on plans to pay cash on veterans' bonus certificates.

Chairman Hawley announced the heads of General Motors, the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company and others would appear in prolonged hearings, while Chairman Smoot called the Senate finance committee to meet in executive session tomorrow.

Hawley's action drew instant complaint of "delay" and "one-sidedness" from Minority Leader Garner. It came at the end of a day of new warnings, at both ends of the capitol, that economic disaster would follow the floating of a $3,500,000,000 bond issue to cover the cost.

The House committee also heard advocates forecast beneficial results to business from enactment of the proposals.

There was talk, meanwhile, of a compromise that would succeed at this session. Representative Patman, of Texas, a Democratic sponsor of immediate redemption, said Senator Vandenberg, Republican, Michigan, had expressed belief, after a visit to the White House that a 50 per cent increase in loans allowed on certificates and a reduction of interest would be acceptable to the administration.

Charles E. Mitchell, chairman of the National City Bank of New York, predicted before the Senate banking sub-committee that "hundreds" of small bank failures would follow a bond issue to pay the full value of the certificates.

Alfred P. Sloan, president of General Motors, has been asked to testify tomorrow. He has not responded, but is expected. W. H. George, of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company will be heard also. So will E. D. Duffield, of the Prudential Life Insurance Company; Clarence W. Woodley, of the American Radiator Company, and Samuel W. Reburn, of Lord and Taylor, New York.

Young, the chairman of the board of General Electric, has arranged to give his views later this week, with George E. Roberts, of the National City Bank, New York, and George Harrison, Governor of the New York Federal Reserve Bank.

"The hearings could have been completed by tomorrow," said Garner, author of one pending bill. "The chairman summoned this host of financiers. And I think that the delay is totally unnecessary. Of course, the financiers are against this legislation."

Representative Rankin, Democrat, of Mississippi, argued that the bonus could be paid by increasing the income tax of individuals in the higher brackets. He suggested that "we put a wound stripe on the purses" of the wealthy citizens who, he said, profited by the war.

Representative Brand, Democrat, Georgia, told the committee that he believed some small banks would fail if the legislation went through, but that "they would recover" through the return of better business and industry.

WORLD WAR BOMB INVENTOR DIES IN LONDON

London, Feb. 4.—Frederick Marten Hale, inventor of the Hale bomb, with which the first Zeppelin was destroyed, and the first U-boat sunk during the World War, died here yesterday at the age of 66.

The Hale rifle grenade and the Hale aircraft bomb were the only weapons of that type available for the British and French forces when the World War began. One of the aircraft bombs was dropped on a hangar at Duesseldorf, Germany, in October, 1914, destroying the ship sheltered there, and the same type of bomb brought down a Zeppelin in midair the next year.

A high explosive Hale torpedo sank the first U-boat during the war, and many hundreds of thousands of Hale bombs and more than ten million Hale rifle grenades were used during the war.

Mr. Hale had been engaged in the study and manufacture of high explosives since 1895. He was the first to propose and invent the depth charge used against submarines.

When Perley Young, 55, of Concord, N. Young, who remained sitting in his decapitated automobile, was uninjured.

BETTER BUSINESS CHECKS STIMULATING BUSINESS

With the same idea in view, which served as the inspiration of the Round Robin Check, the Rotary Club here is sponsoring the Better Business Check. These checks are certified and are issued from the Bank of Farmville in $5 denominations, and a few of the 50 checks agreed upon are being put into circulation daily.

The Better Business Check is intended to be used only in paying off obligations, and cannot be cashed until it has been endorsed by ten people. Several instances where it has passed through the same hands several times have been reported. When the 50 checks are returned to the coffers of the bank again, $2,500.00 of debts of persons in this community will have been settled.

The movement is widespread throughout the country and is receiving daily impetus. We note a Greenville, Tenn., communication which states that the city has issued checks of $10 denominations, requiring 50 endorsements, which will pay off $500 indebtedness.

Roger W. Babson, noted philosopher and sage of the financial world is quoted as saying that $100 in such checks, if circulated fast enough will pay off a community's debts.

Let us get busy and help circulate the Better Business Checks here in Farmville.
