Looking at Washington

to cover millions of square miles of the Pacific, extending as far North as the Aleutian Islands, as far South as Canton Island and possibly as far West as Wake, Guam and the Philippines.

Leaving the San Pedro-San Diego area were 11 battlehips, six aircraft carriers, four heavy cruisers, eight submarines, 5 destroyers, 9 auxiliaries, 13 ships of the base force with 290 airplanes. They will be joined by units in the Pearl Harbor area, including eight heavy cruisers, one aircraft carrier, eight mineships, one light cruiser, 18 submarines, 31 destroyers, 110 airplanes.

The so-called "revelations" from Berlin, which allegedly disclose pro-Ally activity on the part of Ambassador Kennedy, at London, and Ambassador Bullitt, at Paris, produced no excitement on this side of the Atlantic.

There was some speculation as to the motives behind the release of the documents, alleged to have been taken from Polish archives in Warsaw. The sentiments, attributed to the Ambassadors, were not, in the main, surprising.

The suspicion that Berlin set the "revelations" afloat as propaganda in the hope of influencing public opinion in this country is strong. Apparently, Berlin wished to feed some fuel to the flame of suspicion that burns around the idea that the President is trying to put the United States into the war on the side of Great Britain and France.

Back of this, it seems, is the idea that if the American people can be persuaded to believe that everything this nation does is a step toward war, there will be an active opposition to any steps, even those "short of war" which tend to strengthen the forces arrayed against Germany.

The establishment of the puppet Wang Government in Nanking supported by the Japanese Army may create serious questions for the United States. Heretofore, interference with American trade and other rights in the occupied areas have been explained by the Japanese on the grounds of military necessity.

Tokyo, constantly reiterated that the inconveniences were temporary. Now, with a puppet-Chinese Government established, there is the strong probability that the same interference will continue but that it will be nominal.

The activity of the Wang Government instead of the Japanese.

Consequently, any American protest to Tokyo will be met with bland assurance that the Japanese had nothing whatever to do with the matter and Washington will be referred to the Wang regime.

Because this country has not recognized and will not recognize that regime, there will be difficulty in negotiations. Even if an approach is made to the Wang Government, its answers to American protests will be based upon the advice of Tokyo, which will hide behind the buffer state created.

Thus we will have the situation of the United States, which has refused to recognize Japanese territorial gains in Manchukuo and North China, trying to protect its rights in an area dominated by Japan but running into a blank wall as Tokyo blandly refers protests to Nanking.

In other words, the Japanese principal will refuse to negotiate, refer Washington to its bayonet-supported agent and with both parties being fully conscious of the fact that the Nanking regime is unable to act independently or make any settlement of the issues involved.

Apparently, this will place the United States in a dilemma, involving the loss of its rights, unless it calls the bluff of Tokyo. This call cannot be based upon mere words but must be accomplished by a threat of force involving at least an economic embargo if not the use of the armed forces of this country.

STATE COLLEGE ANSWERS TIMELY FARM QUESTIONS

QUESTION: What is the best distance between hills and rows in setting tobacco plants?

ANSWER: A distance of 24 inches between hills with the rows four feet wide has proven to be most satisfactory under average conditions. On the more fertile soil, even closer spacing on the row will be profitable. The plants should be of uniform size and free from disease.

The first cultivation should be made about a week or ten days after transplanting followed by cultivations every week or ten days until just before topping.

QUESTION: How can I preserve my surplus eggs for consumption next winter?

ANSWER: For general farm use, water-glass method is the most popular and cheapest method. This is prepared by using one quart of sodium silicate (water-glass) to five quarts of water that has been boiled and allowed to cool.

This mixture is then placed in a five gallon crock or jar and the eggs put in the jar with the large ends up. This container will hold about 12 dozen eggs. If sufficient eggs are not available when the solution is first made, additional eggs may be added from time to time.

Use only fresh, clean, infertile eggs and be sure that the solution is two inches above the eggs at all times.

QUESTION: How can wilt be controlled on sweet potatoes?

ANSWER: If the potatoes are to be planted on land that is known to harbor the Wilt or Stem Rot fungus, the root ends of the slips should be immersed in a Bordeaux Mixture solution made with one pound of Copper Sulphate (blue stone) and one pound of lime to two and one-half gallons of water.

A wooden tub or stone crock should be used. The plants should be drained and transplanted before the chemical dries on the roots. If the soil is dry, the plants should be watered at planting.

Vegetable Laxative Has Important Points

Most people want a laxative to do three things: (1) act punctually, (2) act thoroughly, (3) act gently.

Here's one that usually fills all three requirements when the easy directions are followed. It's an all-vegetable product whose principal ingredient has medical recognition as an "intestinal tonic-laxative."

That's the ingredient which enables BLACK-DRAUGHT to help some lazy bowel muscles. It is the main reason for the satisfying relief from constipation that generally follows next morning when BLACK-DRAUGHT is taken at bedtime. The millions of packages used are proof of its merit.
