

Home Gardens Show Sizeable Expansion

Judging from the appearance and size of home gardens this year, pantries in rural North Carolina homes this fall and winter will be stocked with an abundance of canned fruits and vegetables, according to John W. Goodman, assistant director of the N. C. State College Extension Service.

Evidently realizing that they face the prospect of slim profits from cotton and tobacco this year, farm families have given serious consideration to the suggestions of Extension workers and have redoubled their efforts to produce good gardens.

Not only have these families devoted more area to gardens, Goodman said, but they have planted a wider assortment of vegetables. This will assure a greater variety in the diet. That part of the garden not used for current needs is being preserved for fall and winter use.

In most home demonstration clubs at the present time, canning has come to the forefront as a major project. Home agents of the Extension Service are instructing farm women members in the latest and most scientific methods of canning and preserving surplus foods.

Likewise, Goodman said, these safe agents are giving instruction to 4-H Club girls in saving fruits and vegetables. Many of the club girls have taken food conservation as their major project for the year.

Greater than usual interest in home gardens was stimulated this year by a new AAA provision which provides mate without 1941 control.

State AAA Executive E. Y. Floyd of State College said the control program would be carried to the grower before the July 26 vote and draw unanimous response in an appeal for assistance from bankers, merchants and warehousemen.

W. E. Fenner, warehouseman, and Millard E. Jones, banker, both of Rocky Mount, assured AAA officials the program would carry. Similar testimonials were voiced from representatives from Virginia to Florida.

W. W. Eagles of Maclefield, who acted as secretary, expressed a similar belief.

Explaining the control system, Hutson said that if the three-year plan was adopted, no farmer's quota in any year might be cut by more than 10 per cent of his 1940 quota. For instance, if a farmer has a 20-acre allotment this year, he may not be cut under 18 acres in either of the two subsequent years.

On the other hand, Hutson went on, there is no ceiling on quotas, and if demand develops, quotas can be raised as high as needed.

The AAA drew plans for a series of meetings in every tobacco community to acquaint farmers with details of the AAA control plan.

The full text of the control resolution follows:

"Whereas: The present situation confronting flue-cured tobacco growers is more serious than at any time in previous years due to the war overseas, eliminating exports of flue-cured tobacco to those countries formerly purchasing nearly 60 per cent of the entire flue-cured tobacco crop grown in this country, and

"Whereas: The huge 1939 surplus of approximately 400 million pounds has depressed and will continue to depress prices until this surplus is eliminated, and

"Whereas: It would disrupt the entire tobacco growing industry, as well as the economic life of the tobacco growing areas, if growers were compelled to absorb the necessary acreage reduction in one year rather than in three years, and

"Whereas: The average prices of growers had already fallen eight cents per pound below the average of the previous five years even before the European war started last September.

"Now therefore, be it resolved, That representative growers, bankers, tobacco warehousemen, and other business men from the States of Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia and Florida in meeting assembled at Raleigh, N. C., with Mr. J. B. Hutson, Agricultural Adjustment Administrator, this 18th day of June, 1940, unanimously go on record as being in favor of the regulation of tobacco acreage for the three-year period rather than one year, in the belief that:

"1. The trade would be more likely to make purchases at reasonable prices.

"2. The government could better give maximum support for the export grades, which at the present time have practically no markets.

"3. Normal credit could be more intelligently extended, thereby assuring growers necessary financial aid in producing their crop.

"4. Under three-year quotas growers could make their plans without fear of drastic changes from year to year.

"Be it further resolved: That the growers, bankers, tobacco warehousemen and business men from the above mentioned flue-cured belts, do hereby pledge themselves to support the three-year regulation period, and urge all tobacco growers to vote for the three-year plan in the referendum to be held July 20, 1940."

Where he fumigated with paradichlorobenzene to control blue mold, W. L. Bostic of Magnolia, Duplin County, pulled 25,018 tobacco plants per 100 square yards of bed as compared with 3,438 plants where no fumigant was used.

a small payment for planting and cultivating a garden. The provision specifies a minimum of ten vegetables on at least one-tenth of an acre during the year.

The latest available figures from the U. S. Department of Agriculture showed North Carolina well in front of other states in the value of vegetables produced in home gardens.

Girls Are Advised To Build-Up For Relief

Lack of knowledge causes many a weak, undernourished girl a lot of suffering!

Many others, however, know how the headaches, nervousness, cramp-like pain of functional dysmenorrhea due to malnutrition are helped by the proper use of CARDUI.

Some take it a few days before and during "the time," to help ease periodic distress. But CARDUI's principal use is to be "increased appetite; stimulate the flow of gastric juice; so aid digestion, assist in building up physical resistance and thus help reduce periodical distress. Women have used CARDUI for over 50 years.

MATRESSES

Approximately 450 low-income farm families of Union County have made application for mattresses under the Federal-State cotton surplus removal program, says Assistant Farm Agent T. M. Mayfield.
