Not Wheat but Milk and Eggs

In 1918 wheat headed the list of farm products needed for national defense purposes. In today's emergency, however, the emphasis is on foods such as milk and eggs. There is plenty of wheat on hand—in fact, nearly a two year's supply is stored in the nation's Ever-Normal Granary. The U. S. Department of Agriculture urges that farmers, in planning for next year, hold down production of surplus crops such as wheat and at the same time expand production of defense foods needed today.

and its milk production by 4 per cent, in 1942," he said, "and you county farm and home agents, and Extension specialists must lead the program and help farm people to achieve their increased production goals."

IMPROVEMENT

Nearly 6,000,000 farmers working 80 per cent of the total U. S. cropland, protected and improved their farms by conservation measures of the 1940 AAA farm program.

DEFENSE BOND Quiz

Q. What can I do to help my son who has just entered military service?

A. Your boy must be clothed, fed, and supplied with the latest equipment. This requires money. Buy a Defense Savings Bond and help the Government to equip your son.

Q. What is labor's attitude toward the Treasury's Defense Savings Program?

A. Strongly cooperative. The A. F. of L., the C. I. O., the Railroad Brotherhoods, and numerous other labor groups all over the country have endorsed the Program.

NOTE.—To buy Defense Bonds and Stamps, go to the nearest post office, bank, or savings and loan association; or write to the Treasurer of the United States, Washington, D. C. Also Stamps now are on sale at most retail stores.

Obviously, Americans should recognize the difficult position in which the Finns find themselves at this time. Taking advantage of the German attack upon Russia, the Finns advanced against the Soviet forces in order to recapture territory taken from Finland by Russia after Germany's attack upon Poland.

This objective, the recapture of Finnish territory, was undoubtedly approved by Americans generally, but, because of the larger implications involved, the United States was, and is, anxious to conclude hostilities between Finland and Russia. Consequently, in August, the Government of the United States notified Finland that the Soviet Union was ready to discuss peace on the basis of territorial compensation to Finland.

Having entered the struggle at the same time that Germany attacked Russia, the impression has gone abroad that Finland is an ally of Germany. The Finns deny this and insist that their war aims are set but that they cannot, for strategic reasons, permit the Russians to know the limit of their objectives. It should be understood, of course, that any attempt on the part of Finland to conclude its war against Russia will probably cause Germany to take drastic action against the tiny democracy.

Whatever the motive that inspired Russia to attack Finland, the Soviet Union is paying for its mistake. It is now anxious to liquidate the Finnish situation and if this is impossible, there is the chance that the Finns will find themselves involved in hostilities with Great Britain, a former and natural friend.

Obviously, so long as Finland was engaged in recapturing territory taken from her by Russia, there was justification in Finnish action. Now, with this objective largely attained, continued Finnish participation makes the democratic nation an active ally of Germany and an impediment to the defeat of Hitler.

JAP CRISIS AHEAD? TOKYO OPPORTUNIST U. S. STANDS FIRM

Relations between the United States and Japan are to reach a crisis on November 15th, when the extraordinary session of the Japanese Diet assembles, according to reports from Tokyo.

While the implied warning may constitute Japanese pressure upon the United States for concessions in order to prevent Japan from positive action, there is much evidence that the Japanese Government is preparing the people of the Empire for an inevitable clash in the Pacific.

The Japanese intimate that there is a time-limit to their patience and that the United States must abandon its objection to Japanese objectives or face the possibility that Japan will actively join the Axis group in the prosecution of war. The Japanese press does not bite its tongue, insisting that the United States must give up its policy of encirclement and abandon economic sanctions against Japan.

The United States is pictured as a nation motivated by a warlike purpose and, of course, Japan is presented as the champion of the New Order which is to include world peace.

Regardless of the absurdity of the Japanese official position, the people of the United States should not underestimate the threat that exists in the Far East. With our Navy divided between the Atlantic and Pacific Oceans, and, excepting only battleship strength, the Japanese Navy is numerically stronger than that of this country. Every cruiser, destroyer and submarine in the Atlantic increases the marginal superiority of the Japanese Fleet.

It has been noticeable that the Japanese attitude toward the United States in the Pacific fluctuates with the success or failure of German campaigns in Europe. When the Germans are sweeping their foes before them, Tokyo talks boldly, but when the war psychology turns against Germany, the Japanese begin to speak more peacefully. Obviously, the Japanese are watching world events very closely and intend to alter their policy to fit any opportunity that presents itself.

That the United States will find it impossible to meet the Japanese demands is obvious to everyone who understands the course of Japanese conduct in recent years.

The price of Japanese demands for peace in the Pacific includes the abandonment of China, the recognition of Manchukuo, recognition of Japanese superior rights in the Far East, and end of encirclement and the abandonment of economic restrictions toward the United States. There is no reason to suspect that Japan would be satisfied and every reason to expect continued Japanese demands.
