"DOGWOOD WEEK" TO BE AN ANNUAL CAROLINA PROJECT

The Farmville Garden Club is sponsoring "Dogwood Week" during the week of January 27th, and request all citizens of the town and community to plant one or more Dogwoods. The State Garden Club planned at the October board meeting to promote the planting of these trees as widely as possible in the State. The last of January will probably be the best time to transplant Dogwoods.

Mrs. Charlotte Hilton Green, who writes "Out-of-Doors in Carolina", urges planting of Dogwoods around the homes, along the country lanes and the bigger highways, in public grounds, churchyards, cemeteries, and parks. She asks why doesn't the South make more of its God-given beauty, the flowering dogwood?

"God's gift to Southern forests" is what Clarence Poe, editor of the Progressive Farmer, so aptly names the Dogwood. She continues that here it is at our very door-step, just for the trouble of digging and transplanting, and note please, that does not mean raking the other fellow's woodland. Instead make a deal with the farmer to obtain the trees. Or they can be purchased from the State Department of Conservation and Development for $20.00 per hundred, or ten for $2.00.

We could make the entire State a gigantic "Dogwood Festival" that would in time rival Japan's Cherry Blossom Festival. Let each and every one do his or her part towards creating this, North Carolina, the State of Dogwoods. This would be most fitting as it is the State Flower.

Listening at the witticisms directed towards the Income Tax Reports at this season when estimates are "in vogue," we think the best we have heard was a remark made by Ed Nash Warren, of the local Post Office, who said, "Well, I'd rather worry with that income tax business than worry without it."

Farmers may soon be able to get telephone service over rural electric lines, if tests are satisfactorily worked out.

Shortages in materials for packing food will continue during the coming year but no bottlenecks are expected.

Everything in the feed line has become so tightly bound by trading that manufacturers are bartering furiously for most of the protein used.

Farmers will profit if they make plans in January to cover the next few years, farm management specialists of the N. C. Extension Service say.

As to food supplies for 1946, only sugar and some fats and oils are expected to be short when summer comes along.

Activities Of Women In Church Groups

Episcopal
The initial meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary in the New Year, was held Monday afternoon, with Mrs. G. Alex Rouse as hostess. White snapdragons, poinsettias and scarlet berries were used as a setting for the meeting. Mrs. W. R. Burnett presided over a business session in which the members agreed to assist with the Victory Clothing Collection. The Diocesan meeting, to be held this month, in Fayetteville, was discussed. Objectives and plans for work in the new year were outlined by the president. The Rev. Sidney Matthews, of Washington, was a special guest and spoke briefly in regard to the meeting to be held in Greenville, Tuesday evening, January 22, in preparation for the Reconstruction Campaign of the Episcopal Church.

Mrs. R. C. Copenhaver read a timely selection on Palestine. During the social period a New Year contest was conducted by the hostess, and the award, a Madonna calendar, was won by Mrs. Will Jones, Jr. A sweet course was followed by black coffee, nuts and mints.

The Altar Guild met Tuesday evening with the directress, Mrs. John D. Dixon, as hostess. Following the devotional program, needs, in the way of new furnishings for the chancel, were discussed and committees appointed in this connection.

After adjournment, the hostess served chocolate cake, topped with cream, and coffee.

Methodist
Mrs. Wesley R. Willis was hostess to Circle 2, of the Woman's Society of Christian Service, Monday afternoon, at 3:30 o'clock, at her home on Walnut street. Jassemine and potted plants were used with pleasing effect in the living room.

Mrs. O. G. Spell gave the meditation for the afternoon. Pledges for the New Year were made during the business session and Mrs. Ben Gardner was given a cordial welcome into this group as a new member.

Fruit jello, chocolate cake, nuts and coffee were served during the social period.

Mrs. J. Frank Harper and Mrs. E. L. Barrett were joint hostesses at the January meeting of Circle 4, of the Woman's Society of Christian Service, held Monday afternoon at the home of the former, which was made more inviting by the use of scarlet berries and potted plants.

Mrs. C. H. Moxing presented and Mrs. Pearl Johnston presented the program of devotion under the subject, "The New Year, One of Cleansing." Mrs. Johnston took the traditional reference of a clean slate and applied it to the annual opportunity to start anew provided by the New Year. She closed the program with a special New Year prayer.

The hostesses served delicious fruit cake, topped with cream, cookies, nuts and coffee.

The Wesleyan Guild met Monday evening, at 8:00 o'clock, at the home of Mrs. G. M. Holden, with Miss Lila Forbes as hostess. Potted plants made a colorful setting for the meeting.

Mrs. Stuart Sugg presided and led the devotional exercises. Projects for the New Year were discussed and it was decided to make an effort to increase the membership and an increase in dues was also agreed upon at this time.

Miss Frances Howard, program leader, made a splendid talk on the subject of "Christian Brotherhood." After adjournment, the hostess served fruit jello, topped with cream and cherries, sand tarts, bird nest cookies, salted nuts and mints.

BIRTHDAY PARTIES

Sister Pickett, attractive daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Pickett, observed her seventh birthday, Monday, January 7, with a dinner party, which was attended by nine friends in formal attire.

The birthday cake with its seven pink candles made a lovely centerpiece for the table, which was decorated further with streamers extending from the chandelier to the covers with attached place cards. A course dinner was served at 6:30 o'clock. Bingo featured the program of fun in the evening.

Guests were: Ella Norris Spencer, Connie Murphy, May Turnage Eason, Theodore Albritton, Nan Williams, Ann Morgan, Mary Lou Moore, Ann Frances Allen and Diana Monk.

William Michael Hatem, winsome son of Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Hatem, celebrated his fourth birthday Sunday, January 13, with a party, to which 15 of his little friends were invited.

The birthday cake with its gleaming candles was the center of attraction on the dining room table, which was spread with an embroidered cloth. Pink and white streamers were festooned from the chandelier overhead, which was finished with long fringe in the same colors. Ice cream was served with the cake by the parents of the small host.

Games were played and further entertainment provided by the taking of group pictures.

N. C. cotton ginners are saving seed for planting this year in a cooperative plan to beat the seed shortage.

The world carry-over of cotton stands at 26.5 million bales as compared with 22.0 million bales before the war.

The labor situation in fertilizer plants is critical. Order fertilizer early and take deliveries when offered.

Long delays in starting Spring work will result if tools and equipment are not repaired and ready to be used.

Agronomists of the Extension Service observe that the greatest 1946 need in N. C. agriculture is larger yields per acre.

BIRD CLUB

An article on the Canary was read by Billie Russell at Saturday's Bird Club meeting. This bird found today in every country on the globe, occupies a remarkable place, since among our common domestic birds it alone is kept and reared solely for the pleasure and companionship that it brings into our homes. Its contribution to our well being comes entirely in the form of pleasing songs and interesting mannerisms. It joins the cultivated flowers in making attractive the background of our lives.

The true wild Canary is grayish above streaked rather heavily with blackish, and marked with yellow on the rump and crown. The breast is dull yellow and the sides grayish, indistinctly streaked. This is the stock from which all our domestic Canaries have come.

Accustomed as we are to the Canary in captivity it seems strange to consider them as living wholly at freedom. In their island homes they range commonly in gardens and orchards, and are also found in sterile, stony where they may be tame and confiding, or wild and difficult to approach. Canaries remained rare for a considerable period and commanded such prices that for a long time they were kept only by the wealthy.

The nests are cups of grasses and weed stems lined with softer materials, placed in bushes or on low branches of trees. The three to five eggs are light green, spotted with reddish brown. The song is as attractive as in captive birds, though not so prolonged in utterance, nor is it given for so much of the year.

Among the distinct strains kept by Canary fanciers are the White, Cinnamon, Lizard, Norwich, Belgian Fancy, and Scotch Fancy, Crested, Lancashire, Frilled and Yorkshire.

The shortage of recommended cotton seed for planting this year has reached a critical stage.
