"JES' HOL' IT NATCHEL, SONNY"

"DISCOVERING" UNCLE NATCHEL

One day back in 1934, an artist, driving leisurely along a country road in the deep South, heard the sound of banjo music floating toward him through the trees. He left his car and followed the sad-sweet strains until he found a clearing in the forest where, on a little cabin porch, sat an old darky, a red-headed boy of twelve, and a dog—in the middle of a music lesson! All unseen, the artist set up his easel and soon, upon the canvas, appeared the boy, all thumbs, his face screwed up in earnest effort, manfully struggling with the stringed instrument; the dog looking on in painful apprehension; the old man patiently urging: "Jes' hol' it natchel, Sonny—thataway, natchel!"

This beautiful painting by Hy Hintermeister was featured on the 1835 Uncle Natchel calendar, and introduced to a million people the familiar figure of "Uncle Natchel", the kindly old man who has appeared ever since as the symbol of Natural Chilean Nitrate of Soda.

"Uncle Natchel is really a rare and lovable character. Grown old in the employ of Sonny's family, he is known to everyone for miles around for his inexhaustible supply of stories about the wonders of Nature and his belief that the best way to do anything is the "Natchel" way. And that, of course, is how he got his name.

State College Hints For Farm Homemakers

By Ruth Current, N. C. State College. When working out a family spending plan, remember to include the children. Family life specialists say, child's experience in handling money is part of the training which home life provides.

Some families start the youngsters off by making them responsible for a small allowance. Then as the children grow older, they learn more about the needs and problems of the family as a whole. Children are usually more willing to go without some of the things they would like to have, if they see their responsibility in relation to the needs of others.

Few homemakers would admit spending time on trash. Yet in every home there are daily accumulations of waste which cause time-consuming clutter unless proper storage and systematic disposal is planned, say household management specialists. In the kitchen, especially, waste needs to be organized—garbage as well as bags, paper, boxes, bottles and cans. In the rest of the house there are newspapers, magazines, and old clothes.

Some of this "trash" may be saved and used again by thrifty homemakers if they have space to keep it. Some may be given away or sold for salvage. The rest should be collected and discarded promptly. In many kitchens a drawer or a rack may be used to hold paper bags, wrapping paper and string. An upper shelf may be given to jars and glasses that can be reused for home canning and preserving.

Too often magazines are allowed to pile up, filling needed space and catching dust. A better plan is to pass them on regularly to the many hospitals, recreation centers or other institutions in need of reading matter.

A waste basket in every room will save much time. Garbage should be kept tightly covered both indoors and out and disposed of as promptly as possible. Other trash should be burned regularly or kept in a covered container until carried away.

A wife takes credit for all her husband's virtues, but holds him personally responsible for his weaknesses.
