SHOWER PARTIES GIVEN FOR RECENT BRIDE

In compliment to Mrs. Roland O. Lang, Jr., a recent bride, Mrs. Henry D. Johnson and Mrs. Carol W. Modlin were charming hostesses at an attractive kitchen shower party, given in the Johnson home, Friday evening. The reception rooms were decorated with lovely red, white and pink roses and snapdragons.

Little Miss Henri-Perle Johnson presented the honoree with a corsage of red roses and a card index, which held favorite recipes of the guests, chosen especially for use of the bride. A contest relative to articles, useful in the kitchen, was conducted.

Mrs. Alfred H. Lewis won the prize, pot holders.

The honoree was requested to consult her index for unusual recipes found in the front of the box. These, recorded in rhymed verse, directed her to the many shower gifts found hidden throughout the home. The gift of the hostesses was a set of breakfast china and a floral patterned cloth with matching napkins.

Bridal ices, decorated cakes and nuts were served, followed by demitasses.

Measuring cups and tea balls, tied with ribbons, made attractive favors for the guests.

Mrs. Lang was also honored at a lovely shower party given, Monday evening, in the assembly room of the Baptist Church. Artistic arrangements of roses and sweetpeas were used in decorating.

A musical theme featured the entertainment program. A contest "Spinning the Yarn" gave interesting happenings in the honoree's past with predictions for her future. Miss Elvira Tyson, dressed as a half boy, half girl, presented a humorous skit carrying on an imaginary long distance conversation between the bride and groom just prior to their marriage. Greetings and advice to the bride were given in song titles.

Mrs. Lang was then requested to sing "Always" from the music sheet arranged especially for her on a large screen, complete with notes of the chorus. This was made more attractive with decorative sprays of sweetpeas. She was told that this had been selected as the theme song for her married life. She was then instructed to turn the sheet of music, whereupon the many lovely miscellaneous gifts from members of the Woman's Missionary Society, Annie Perkins Circle and Young Woman's Auxiliary, were revealed.

Strawberry shortcake was served, followed by coffee, cheese straws and nuts.

There were fifty-five in attendance.

In the bridge games played at four tables Mrs. Charles Duke was awarded top score prize, a nest of crystal ash trays in pastel shades. The hostess presented the honoree gifts, Mrs. Lang receiving china in her pattern and Miss Dail, a crystal bowl.

Through Mrs. Moye's depiction of the life of Ned Langford, the book's hero, her listeners were apprised of the leper situation throughout the world, the work that has been, and is being, done to combat the disease.

After adjournment the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Henrietta Williamson and Mrs. C. H. Joyner, served strawberries with ice-cream, angel food cake, nuts and mints. Special guests were Mrs. Moye, Mrs. J. M. Hogwood and Mrs. J. C. Sholdes, houseguest of Miss DeVisconti.

Junior Prom Is Enjoyable Affair

An outstanding social event of the past week was the Junior Class dinner and prom, held at the Country Club, Friday evening. A three course dinner was served at 7:00 o'clock with covers laid for sixty.

A red, white and green color scheme was noted in the floral decorations, Paul's scarlet roses being used in mental and floor baskets arrangements and in center borders for the tables. The color scheme was further emphasized in place cards, napkins, mint cups and in the dessert course.

The program opened with the High School song followed by the invocation by Jack Willis. Majorie Killebrew acted as toastmistress. Maynard Thorne brought words of welcome and Daphne Yelverton gave a toast to the faculty, to which Miss Bertha Lang responded. Betsy Morris and Bruce Darden toasted the school and the guests.

When special entertainers, expected from out of town, failed to arrive, students rose to the occasion and presented a most enjoyable program. Tommy Ramey, assisted by Jack Willis and Maynard Thorne, gave an impersonation of Frank Sinatra, Margaret Williams appeared as Betty Hutton and Betsy Morris recited "The Black Cat."

A number of impersonations of the teachers proved especially entertaining. In turn, teachers were asked to describe some humorous situations, which had occurred in their classrooms, with Juniors guessing students involved.

Interesting bits of advice were given by the Juniors by J. M. Wheelers, Jr.

The class invited as special guests, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Moore, members of the high school faculty and their husbands.

Dancing was enjoyed until midnight, with additional friends joining the party for this portion of the evening's entertainment. At the intermission, refreshing punch was served with cookies.
