Christian Endeavor Meets

The Christian Endeavor held its regular meeting Sunday afternoon, June 24, at the Christian Church.

The meeting was well attended. The worship committee, which consists of Doris Beaman and Myrtle Griffin, headed the devotional services under the theme "The Danger of Hating."

Ruth Gay and Doris Beaman were prize winners of a contest that was held by Mrs. McKee.

The Christian Endeavor invites any young person who is not a member of any young peoples organization to come and join their group. The ages range from 6 to 11, youngest group, 12 and up older group. The hour of meeting is 5:30 Sunday afternoon at the Walstonburg Christian Church.

a practical proposition?

ANSWER: Yes. At a recent meeting of North Carolina and Virginia dairymen in the Danville milk shed area, the farmers agreed to sign up 1200 cows to be bred artificially. A special breeding association is being set up. At the recent Blitmore Jersey sale, a five-month-old bull calf sold for $16,600. Good breeding pays.

STATE COLLEGE ANSWERS TIMELY FARM QUESTIONS

QUESTION: How can I keep my Leghorns from laying tinted eggs?

ANSWER: Shell color runs in families, according to Prof. Roy Dearstynes, head of the Poultry Department at State College. He suggests that this trouble can be removed by breeding. One Leghorn hen in the college breeding flock has eight out of twelve daughters laying tinted eggs. Other families show no tinted eggs.

QUESTION: How is the best way to sell my lambs and wool?

ANSWER: Cooperative lamb sales and wool pools are now being held at various points in North Carolina, according to Hazel Meacham, Extension marketing specialist at State College. He suggests that you and all other farmers with lambs and wool contact your county agent for information about the cooperative sales. Record prices are being obtained.

QUESTION: What about artificial breeding of dairy cows? Is this
