

W. G. GURGANUS PASSES AT 71

Mr. William Godfrey Gurganus, 71, died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. R. L. Spivey, in Farmville, at 4:15, Wednesday afternoon, after several months of illness.

Funeral services will be conducted at the home at 3 o'clock this afternoon (Friday) by Elder J. B. Roberts, Primitive Baptist Minister, of Farmville, assisted by Elder A. B. Ayers, Primitive Baptist Minister of Bear Grass. Burial will be in the Gurganus Cemetery near Stokes.

Mr. Gurganus was born and reared near Stokes and moved to Robersonville in 1917. He had lived in Norfolk and Greenville prior to coming to Farmville in 1933. He was married to Ella Powell of near Stokes in 1896, and they celebrated their golden wedding anniversary March 10, 1946.

Surviving are his wife, four daughters: Mrs. Myrtle Roebuck and Mrs. R. L. Spivey, of Farmville, and Mrs. Roy A. Gray and Mrs. A. G. Roughton of Norfolk, Va., 11 grandchildren and 5 great grandchildren.

BIRD NOTES

The Dipper was the bird study at Saturday's meeting and Charles Allen the reader. This bird is eight inches long and in coloration plain gray on brown predominates with darker crown and paler on chin and throat. The sexes are alike in color. The head, neck and body are covered with down and the plumage is very dense and soft, which enables it to go under water without getting wet.

The Dipper is a water lover. The nest, a structure of green moss, is placed near water, usually behind a waterfall, and is kept green by the spray, which constantly moistens it. If it dries out the birds sprinkle it themselves by diving in the water, then going to the top of the nest and shaking themselves violently.

They feed on the small insects, which live under water, and are as much at home there as other birds are in the air. They can walk on the bottom with swift, running water over their heads and can really fly under water, using their wings as they do in the air.

The Dipper is a song bird and sings all winter, never minding the cold weather. He flies about in the snow, dives under the ice, and comes out at an airhole, as jolly and lively as if it were summertime.

Bobbie Joyner was a guest and Bob Harper was welcomed as a new member at this time.

After a period of games, candy was enjoyed by all.

Next Saturday, at 10:00 o'clock, the members will go on a hike and picnic.
