Activities of Local Church Organizations

Episcopal

"The Furniture and the Arrangement of the Church," was discussed by Miss Margaret Smith at the Episcopal Altar Guild meeting held in her home on Tuesday evening.

Mrs. J. D. Dixon opened the meeting with prayer followed by the Creed. Mrs. W. R. Burnette gave the treasurer's report.

In the social hour which followed, Miss Smith served lemon pies, iced coffee, and nuts.

Methodist

Mrs. G. S. Williams was hostess to Circle 4 of the Methodist Woman's Society on Monday afternoon in the home of Mrs. E. R. Clegg.

The 119th Psalm was used by Mrs. J. H. Harris as the devotional theme and "Peace Day" was the topic of her talk on missions.

Mrs. Ray West, of Walstonburg, and Mrs. Alice Tugwell, sisters of Mrs. Pearl Johnston, were guests. A cordial welcome was extended Miss Lula Forbes, a former member.

Lovely arrangements of dahlias were used in decorating. During a pleasant social hour the hostess served London mist, cakes, and salted nuts.

The Wesleyan Guild met Monday evening with Mrs. Joseph Joyner.

Miss Bertha Lang gave the devotional entitled, "In Green Pastures." Mrs. Mac Carraway made a very inspiring talk, "Are We Receiving the Full Blessings of a Christian Life?" Following the program Mrs. Stuart Sugg presided over a short business session.

The hostess served ice cream, chocolate cake and salted nuts.

Presbyterian

Mrs. George B. Moore, chairman, was hostess to Circle 1 of the Presbyterian Auxiliary on Monday afternoon in the home of Mrs. G. R. Smith.

Those present took part in a discussion of "Becoming Discipline Witnesses." Misses Jean Beckman and Wilma Stansill gave the program on the subject, "Our High Calling."

Zinnias and marigolds were used in decorating. After adjournment wafers, an iced drink and potato chips were served by the hostess. Miss Stansill and Miss Beckman were special guests.

Circle 2 of the Presbyterian Auxiliary met with Mrs. Joe Flake on Monday night.

Mrs. William Easley developed the devotional topic from Isaiah and talked of "Becoming Discipline Witnesses." "Our High Calling," the program topic, was presented by Mrs. C. F. Baucom.

During the business session, presided over by the chairman, Mrs. W. H. Moore, Jr., the annual fall cleaning of the church was announced, and will be held on September 17 and 18. All church and auxiliary members were urged to be present or send someone in their place.

Summer cut flowers were used in artistic decoration of the hostess' home.

During the social period home-made pineapple cake and iced popo-colas were enjoyed by the members and special guests, Miss Jen Easley and Mrs. J. C. Corbett.

Mrs. Glenn Newton, who moved here recently from Bethel, was welcomed as a new member of the group.

BIRD NOTES

The Dickcissel was the subject of study at Saturday's meeting with Claude Tyson as program leader. This bird is known also as the Black-throated Bunting and the little Meadowlark. It is six and one half inches in length. The upper parts are gray, brown, and black, streaked; the under parts are white and yellow. The bill is stout and conical; wings are long and pointed and the forked tail is three-fourths the length of the wing.

The Dickcissel is so named from the simple song with which he makes cheery the fence rows and bushy corners of the prairies. There is a summery homely sweetness about the persistency of the notes that matches the season.

It is one of the most interesting birds, not alone on account of its beauty, but because it varies greatly in numbers in different localities, and in the same locality in different years.

A person who lives in the Central States and the Middle West and does not know this bird is said to be missing an interesting neighbor. This is so because of his song, his unusual beauty, his plump and genial personality, and above all the uncertainty of his presence. It is easy to mistake a male English sparrow for the Dickcissel.

During the summer months grasshoppers form over forty per cent of his food. Caterpillars, canker worms, beetles and snails complete his animal diet. Being a typical seedeater, its staple food during a large part of the year consists of the seeds of weeds and grasses.

Its nest is placed on the ground sheltered by a tuft of grass, or in trees or bushes sometimes fifteen feet up. It is constructed of grass, weed stems, rootlets and shreds of corn husks and lined with horse hair or fine grass. Four or five plain pale blue eggs are laid.

George Creekmur donated lumber to the club with which to construct bird houses at this time.
